DEMOCRATS IN CONVENTION

Th Sssion Lasted Almost Four Hours and Was Rather Spicy.

SPANGLER NAMED BY ACCLAMATION

Schofield and Foster, Cronister, Weaver, Harper, Rumberger, Meyer and Heckman Were the Successful Ones.—A Detailed Report.

The Democrats of Centre county held their love feast Tuesday in the Court House. It was, as every one expected, a lively affair from beginning to end. Of course there are many who are disappointed over the result, but then this is always the case, so it is a matter of little importance. There, too, are some bosom friends of yesterday who are total strangers now, and to see them pass by on the street one would not imagine they had ever known one an other. But the way of the transgressor is hard and these misguided politicians are just commencing to realize that they are on the wrong side of the fence and that no one in their party can be trusted. Many were they who arrived in town full of hope, who went home this afternoon crestfallen, weary and disheartened.

The delegates, candidates and friends commenced to arrive on Monday afternoon and things at once started to get lively. With the first train this morning came hundreds of people and they did not stop coming until the last morning train had arrived and even then there were a few who rode in—on foot.

The wire pulling commenced on Monday night in dead earnest and the poor uninstructed delegate who made his appearance will regret it as long as he lives. He was simply pulled this way and that until he knew not where he was, and to escape with his life it was necessary to promise to vote for every candidate that braced him.

The campaign is indeed an interesting one. Every person who ever contemplated coming out for office in past years, but was persuaded to "lie low for a while" by the leaders, is now seeking an office—and with a vengeance at that. As one candidate put it, "By Jimminie, I have been told to 'lie low' for five times now already, but they don't fool me some more. I will have an office or know the reason why." And the candidate meant every word he said, too.

As the delegates arrived in town they were immediately taken in tow by the candidates and leaders and everything possible done to show them "a good time." The Prothonotary's office at the Court House and Garman's hotel seemed to be the principal gathering places and it is needless to say the large crowd made it lively for a few hours. It was a good-natured crowd (this, remember, is before the convention) and everybody seemed to be in an exceptionally good humor.

Col. "Jack" Spangler seemed to be the centre of attraction and he was constantly surrounded by a crowd of delegates and admiring friends who called to pay their respects. A microscopic investigation failed to find a Krebs man in the whole crowd—at least not one made himself heard.

The few hours before the convention were pleasantly spent in taking in the sights and drawing up final estimates as to how the ticket would be. Many were the conclusions arrived at, but as they were as uncertain as the trade-winds they were abandoned in turn without any serious consideration.

AT THE CONVENTION.

The convention was scheduled to be called at 12 o'clock, but long before that hour the crowd commenced to flock to the Court House. The doors were not opened until a few moments of 12 and consequently the scene in the halls and corridors was one of great confusion. Up and down the stairways the people surged and when an entrance to the convention hall was finally effected there was one great rush and not a few were almost pressed flat before they could crawl into the seats.

In the convention hall was assembled probably the largest crowd ever known to attend a county political convention. It took but a few moments for every seat to be filled and the aisles and windows were packed with one sweltering mass of humanity. Every available inch of space was called into play and there were almost as many standing around as there were who were fortunate enough to find seats.

It was just 12.23 when County Chairman N. B Spangler called the convention to order.

The first business to be transacted was the selection of a permanent chairman. W. B. Mingle and Henry Brockerhoff were named. Mr Brockerhoff withdrew and Mr. Mingle's nomination was made unanimous.

Next was the choosing of a reading clerk. It resulted in the unanimous selection of F. E. Naginey.

Considerable difficulty was met with in securing three secretaries. George R. Meek, Walter Gherity and A. P. Hurd were finally selected. There were fully a half dozen different persons named but they withdrew.

Still more trouble was found when they came to select two tellers. A number were called on but all declined and it was necessary to go out of the convention to find anybody willing to act in that capacity. Harry J. Jackson and J. A. Walton were then named and approved.

Next was the calling of the roll of delegates. Every one of the 79 delegates answered to their names and the convention then got down to the selection of the different committees, which were as follows:

COMMITTE ON CREDENTIALS—A. A. Plechter, Calvin Smith, N. J. McCloskey, J. W. Kepler and Dominick Judge.

COMMITEE ON RESOLUTIONS—Henry Meyer, J. F. Smith, Michael Dempsey, Frank Wieland and John A. Kelley.

The first nomination to be made was that of a candidate for Congress. J. W. Kepler, of Ferguson township named Col. J. L. Spangler. Upon motion, Col. J. L. Spangler was made the nominee by acclamation. Col. Spangler was escorted to the floor by a committee of three appointed by the convention, and thanked the people for the honor and pledged his faithful support to the ticket whether nominated or not. Col. Spangler's address was greeted with deafening applause. B. Weber, W. C. Patterson and W. C. Heinle were then chosen congressional conferees by acclamation and instructed to support Col. J. L. Spangler for Congress.

Resolutions of the regular convention type were drawn up and adopted.

Next was the selection of two candidates for Assembly. James Schofield, A. C. Thompson and R. M. Foster were named. Before a vote could be taken Mr. Thompson appeared before the convention and withdrew his name as a candidate and Messrs. Schofield and Foster were chosen by acclamation.

The first nomination on the county ticket to be made was that of Sheriff. Messrs. Noll, Runkle, Cronister, Gilliland, Parker, Carson, Leyman, Emerick and Butler were named and the convention immediately proceeded to ballot. The first vote was as follows:

Noll	20.
Runkle	15.
Cronister	14.
Gilliland	5
Parker	9.
Carson	4
Leyman	4.
Emerick	6
Butler	2.

A second ballot was taken and the result was the same. Mr. Butler then withdrew and the third ballot was taken. It resulted in Butler's delegates going for Leyman and the name of Carson was then dropped and the fourth ballot taken. Leyman went down two votes and Runkle went up one and Mr. Leyman was dropped from the list. The fifth ballot resulted in a tie between Gilliland and Emerick both having seven votes. Noll stood 21; Runkle, 15; Cronister, 17; Parker, 12. As the two lowest ones were tie another ballot was taken. This ballot resulted in Cronister going up one and Mr. Emerick was dropped. In the seventh ballot Noll went to 23, Cronister to 20, Runkle to 16 and Parker to 14. Gilliland being the lowest on the list, was then dropped. The eighth ballot stood Noll, 25; Runkle, 15; Cronister, 20; and Parker, 19. Mr. Runkle being the lowest was dropped after this ballot. In the ninth Noll went to 28, Cronister to 25. Parker being the lowest was dropped and it then rested between Noll and Cronister. It was the tenth ballot that decided the contest and it resulted as follows:

Cronister	42.
Noll	37.

As it is necessaay for forty to nominate, Mr. Cronister was declared the nominee. Upon motion of Mr. McClain the nomination was made unanimous.

The next nomination to be made was that of treasurer. Messrs Weaver, Bowersox, Kimport and Kurtz were named. It was here that a turbulent scene was witnessed. The delegates from Centre Hall Borough voted a half vote for Kurtz and Weaver. There was considerable feeling aroused at the primaries at Centre Hall on Saturday and the delegate was sent uninstructed. Before the result of the first ballot could be announced Mr. Kurtz rose and said that he declined the half vote from Centre Hall Borough. He proceeded to read a paper denouncing the methods used at Saturday's primaries claiming that the votes had been manipulated and that republicans had voted with the democrats contrary to the laws of the party. This declaration of Mr. Kurtz caused considerable confusion and for a few moments it was impossible to proceed to business. Mr. Kurtz stuck right to it and finished what he was saying notwithstanding the fact that the chairman was loudly rapping the gavel and half the crowd were on their feet at once yelling at the top of their voices. Order was finally restored and the vote announced, but not however before Mr. Lucas withdrew. The result was as follows:

Weaver	40½
Bowersox	9
Kimport	18
Kurtz	11½

Mr. Weaver was then declared the nominee, he having received the necessary vote.

George Washington Rumberger had no opposition for register and he was nominated by acclamation.

In the contest for recorder J. C. Harper, A. R. Alexander and F. Foreman were named. A vote taken resulted as follows:

Harper	42
Alexander	18.
Foreman	18

Mr. Harper was declared the nominee as he had the necessary number of votes.

In the race for Commissioners were Messrs. Heckman, Heaton, Fry, Meyer, Williams, Bottorf, Frain, Bartges and Neff. The first ballot resulted as follows

Heckman	18
Heaton	8
Fry	24
Meyer	35
Williams	9
Bottorf	19
Frain	25
Bartges	9
Neff	15

A second ballot was necessary to nominate and resulted in Meyer receiving 44 votes. He was declared nominated and the convention proceeded to vote to select the second commissioner. Messrs. Fry Bartges and Heaton had already with drawn and the only ones left to be voted for were Heckman, Williams, Bottorf, Frain and Neff. The first ballot on these result ed as follows:

Heckman	25
Williams	7
Bottorf	15
Frain	21
Neff	10

Two ballots were taken on the above but no one could be nominated. On the third ballot everybody had been dropped but Heckman and Frain and the result showed Mr. Heckman nominated by the following vote:

Heckman	45
Frain	34

Before adjournirg, Frank Hess of Philipsburg, and F. B. Keister, of Millheim, were nominated as Auditors. Hugh Taylor, one o Bellefonte's rising lawyers, was elected County Chairman.

PUBLISHER IN TROUBLE

Charged with Obtaining Money By Fraudelent Means

Johnstown, June 9.—F. W. Clark, proprietor of the late Daily Times, seized and sold recently by the sheriff, was lodged in jail here to-night, on a charge of forgery obtaining money under false pretense and false representation. The complaintant is the Altoona Building and Loan association, and the Citizens' Building and Loan association also of Altoona. Clark is the agent of several building and loan associations of Altoona and it is alleged that he obtained money on Johnstown properties and producing as security mortgages on the properties involved. The amount of Clark's alleged speculations exceed $2,000. It is claimed that numerous other suits against Clark involving several thousand dollars, are yet to be filled. When the sheriff seized Clark's papers two weeks ago, it was found that he was involved to the extent of nearly $60,000.

Johnstown's Awful Fate.

Johnstown, Pa., June 9.—One hundred and eighty cans of dynamite exploded about a mile below Lilly this afternoon with frightful results. The dead and injured are:

Mike Scawnoski dead.
Antonion Stibie.
Gragorius Sciskie.
Gabriel Augonoski.
Frank Smith, colored.
Peter Jackson, colored.
Samuel Watters.

The six last named were fatally injured. The men were at work on the Pennsylvania railroad and were getting ready to make a blast, when a permature explosion occurred blowing up 180 cans of dynamite and burying the seven men beneath a mass of sand and rock. The steam shovel which stood on the track was hurled twenty feet away.

After Forty Years.

Columbus, O., June 9.—A simple operation performed in the hospital of the state prison in this city ends a most interesting pathological history. Prison Hospital Surgeon Thary removed from the body of James Morris, a federal prisoner serving a term for counterfeiting, a needle which was swallowed by the patient when he was a boy 11 years old. As he is now 53 years of age the needle having been in his body forty-two years. In that time it has traveled undoubtedly through nearly every part of the body below the waist. He has made several applications to have the needel removed since he has been in the prison, but it could not be located with sufficient accuracy. Not long ago it was in his right knee and he claimed he could feel the point of it. He suffered great pain from it all the time. The other day he felt the point of the needle projecting from the breast just below the heart. It was an easy matter to remove it. It was the intention of the prisoner official to use the cathode rays in searching for the needle if it had not been found so soon.

One Way of Beating Spain.

Philadelphia, June 9.—The steamer Bermuda, which was recently deprived of her registry by the British consul at this port because, it is said, of her alleged filibustering expeditions, and which has since been lying at Camden, N. J., was to-day seized by United States Marshal Pfeffer, of New Jersey, on a libel filed by three seamen for unpaid wages. The amount claimed bo the seamen is $27.75. It is said that the filing of the libel is part of a plan to secure a registry for the steamer under the American flag. It was stated this afternoon that if the vessel should be sold by order of the United States court and purchased by an American citizen her past record would be wiped out and her owner could procure new papers and sail under the American flag.

Tennis No Child's Play.

In writing of the training a tennis champion goes under, H. W. Slocum, Jr., says "Endurance has now become an important factor in determining the result of a contest at lawn tennis. I know of no game footbali not excepted, in which one is so likely to become exhausted or winded as in lawn tennis when the game is hotly contested and played with spirit as it should be. This being so, some attention should certainly be paid to training and cultivating powers of endurance. It is of course especially important to those who play in in tournaments, which adds so much to the game. A hard fought match of three sets out of five on a hot summer's day is a severe test of endurance, and of two men evenly matched in skill the one who is in the best physical condition will surely win.'—New York Sun.

THE democrats, by turning down Editor Fred Kurtz on Tuesday, demonstrated the fact that they do not appreciate an honest and upright man who has all his life been a hard worker and a faithful party supporter. Talk about ingratitude—

THIS WAS MINISTERS' DAY

At the United Brethren Allegheny District Coference.

MINISTERIAL WORK THE ISSUE

A Program That is Interesting From Beginng to End Was Presented.—The Convention Will Conclude Tonight.—Has Been One of the Most Successful Ever Held.

The Sunday School Convention and Ministerial Association of the Altoona District of Allegheny Conference of the U. B. church met in this city on Wednesday afternoon. The convention opened with devotional service conducted by Rev. R. S. Woodward. It organized by the election of a secretary, vice president and treasurer.

Mr. James Rote then delivered an address of welcome, relating the early history of Bellefonte and the naming of the town. "The motive which brings us together here to-day is to advance the Kingdom of Christ—to awaken in ourselves and others a greater interest in this work."

Rev. J. F. Tallhelm responded in a short but fitting address.

A motion was carried admitting all Sunday school and church workers as delegates to the convention.

Rev. E. F. Ott of Stormstown spoke on "Rise and progress of the Sunday school," relating the history of the Sunday school movement.

Rev. S. S. Hough of Altoona Second church was appointed to open the topic, "How can our Sunday schools be made more interesting. He spoke of the need of isolating classes more in order to secure better results in teaching; proper literature in the Sabbath school; proper persons as teachers and officers, persons well qualified and prepared for teaching. Other speakers continued this topic, giving the thoughts, "Secure Christian teachers whose lives teach Christ;" "All Sunday school workers filled with the Divine Spirit in their work."

Rev. A. L. Funk of Altoona First church opened the topic "Should Quartelies be used in connection with the Bible?" He said we should use all the helps that will tend to secure interest; our great purpose is to lead to Christ those who are not Christians, and to build up in Christ those who are already Christians. Thoughts from other speakers: If the Quarterly is used to draw out a man's own thought and made to stimulate new thought and interest, it is a good, used with the Bible. The Quarterly only an outline of the lesson. Not to tie ourselves to depend on the Quarterly, but get the pupils to think live, warm thoughts. The study of the Living Word itself is more helpful than all outside help.

The evening session opened by the singing of an anthem, "Sun of My Soul." Rev. J. F. Kelly of Wallace Run led in devotions by reading Ephesians 6. After a short prayer service the evening program was taken up by Rev. B. J. Hummell of Huntingdon discussing "What methods should be adopted to interest parents in Sunday school work?" Parents should be interested in the work without needing that any methods be devised for that purpose; the duty which they owe to God should be a sufficient cause for them to be interested in the Sunday school work; those who are inactive in the Sunday school are inactive in all other church work and vice versa. Thoughts from others: Special classes for parents with efficient and capable teachers teaches a good method of interesting parents in Sunday school work. Impress the truth upon their hearts and they will be interested. A reformation in the Sunday school needed. Parents need light on this subject. Let the idea of the church be inseparably connected with the idea of the Sunday school. Make parents feel the need of their services in this work.

Rev. S. S. Hough of Altoona next took up and ably discussed the subject of "Financial Support." "Hold up the right relation which the people have to God. Get us right with God, then all else will come right in its place. The greatest blessing that can come to me in this life is that I may share Christ's kingdom with him here below. Illustrated by the relation of a father and son. Our partnership with Christ. It is a great privilege to have a part in this work with Christ. Mammon—the love of money—the greatest curse in the world. The way to get God's blessing in the church is to get mammon out of it. A disposition to give is the open door to the reception of God's spiritual blessings to us, and it is also the channel through which we become a blessing to others. How can we expect our Heavenly Father to bless us when we are unwilling to use those blessings to the advancement of His cause. How much shall we give? God has right to all. Start with the tithe; try this. Prove the Lord." The speaker advocated in an able manner proportionate giving—giving as God has prospered us.

A song: "Open the Windows of Heaven for Me." Rev. Funk: "We should give to the Lord as the Lord has given to us. It is always divine to give. We are God's; heirs of God. But if not heirs, then what?"

Thursdy morning session was led in devotions by Rev. Ott.

The theme, "What constitutes a successful pastor?" was ably and very earnestly discussed by Rev. A. L. Funk of Altoona: Going to work in obedience to Christ's command—losing sight of self—going in His name, the efforts will be crowned with success. The preacher's and the pastor's work are inseparable without separating the individuals by giving the work to two persons. Devote our lives to this work. Too much of self in the ministry. In order to be successful a pastor's life must be intense. Such was the life of Christ—our example. Not husbanding our stength but using it. The intensity of the Christ-life was because the sins of the world was upon Him. So need we to stand between the lost world and Christ, helping it to lay hold of Him. For this intensity we must be in sympathy with Christ; learn of Him to be earnest and Christ-like. The pastor must be in sympathy with his congregation; let the sympathy, harmony and concert of action be mutual between pastor and people; pastors willing to sacrifice the few for the many. Select text and theme under the immediate direction of the Holy Spirit. Let the study be a room filled with prayer. Do we know what prayer is? It is not framing sentences; it is being filled with a holy, earnest, Christ-like spirit, thus communing with God. 'The truth spoken without unction is the most dangerous thing in existence.' There must be activity. No minister who is not developing himself is able to direct others in the way. He must abide in the Vine and grow if there would be vitality go out from him continually. The Divine life always a development—a growing upward—being conformed more and more to the image of Christ. The conditions of success for a pastor are definite, succient: Be like Christ and you will succeed. Keep self in the background; the Cross ever in the advance. Build up your congregation with Christ as the foundation."

Other thoughts. Let ministers, like Christ, exemplify the Truth before their people, and it will take hold, and be effectual for good. Or-

A STORY OF A DUEL.

Let me write down another of my grand mother's tales as she related it to me. It is not betraying her confidence in me to do so now after these long years. Again it is my grandmother who speaks:

Doubtless thou dost wonder why it is that I so seldom speak of my mother—so seldom even mention her in my talks with thee. The reason is that she had no part in the life that was led around her. She was of a modest, retiring spirit, quite over shadowed by the masterful nature of my father. So gentle and quiet was she that no one—least of all I—properly valued her worth until she slipped our of our lives. My father openly despised her, though he had married her for love. I think he blamed her because she had never borne him a son to take his name.

There is a romance connected with her marriage to my father such as the woman nowadays could scarcely comprehend. I could never learn the details, but only hints of the story. It seems that she, while quite a young girl, became enamored of a young man named Langley, who returned her love, but on account of his poverty they were not to be betrothed until he could properly provide for her, and he went away to seek his fortune. During his absence my mother's father fell ill, and, not being able to attend to his business, his family were brought face to face with want About this time my father—young, rich handsome—offered marriage. My mother however, declined his suit. The time wen on, and the stress of poverty was felt in my mother's home. Her father was slowly dying for the want of proper treatment and when my father renewed his offer it was accepted.

For some years my mother was happy, I believe. She was allowed to maintain her parents, and she had her children, my sister and myself, but by degrees my father's passion for her grew cold. Then Mr. Langley returned to the neighborhood, not with a fortune, indeed, but with some little money. My father most unjustly became suspicious of my mother and would no longer allow her the control of any money even forbidding her to visit her father's house. Now comes the most touching part of the story. My mother's parents, deprived of the support rendered them by my father sank into poverty. When he discovered their condition, Mr. Langley took them into his own home and adopted them for his own parents, maintaining them in comfort until they died, when he again left the neighberhood.

My mother accepted her lot with resignation. I used to think, when I was young, that she showed a lack of proper pride in thus bowing to my father's will, but now I think she was moved by true piety. She understood my father's nature better than I did. She knew the impossibility of making him change his course of action by entreaties She knew that to have reproached him for his ungenerous action would not make him repent of it, but would have widened the breach between them, so she bent before the storm and consoled her heart by unceasing prayer.

The beauty of my mother's natur had been revealed to me by reading her journal, which she gave to me, wherein are set out the doings of each day, together with her thoughts thereon. It is a beautiful volume, and thou mayest well contrast it with my own poor journal, which thou shalt have ere long.

I will read one entry, made about three years after my sisters marriage, of which I have told thee, which shall serve for a text for a story. It runs thus: "This day a duel was fought between Mr. Spencer and Mr. Wallingford. 'Tis said they quarreled over a game of cards, but I fear that Theodora was the cause, which God forbid!" Then followed some of the details of the encounter and my mother's thoughts upon the subject. I have read this much to show that, though my mother took no part in what was going on around her, yet observed closely enough to be able to see below the surface and read the hidden workings of the hearts of others.

I will first describe the principals in this affair, beginning with him who proved himself hero of it. Mr. Spencer was a gentleman of the neigborhood a short, slight man, with reddish hair and somewhat prominent blue eyes. He was distantly related to the famous English General Wolf, whom he resembled a little in appearance, of which fact he was very vain and did what he could in the manner of dress to heighten the likeness, Personally he was a most agreeable gentleman and possessed of considerable talent. He would often entertain the company with recitations from the poets, but his favorite piece was a description of the death of the hero of Quebec, since become historic. This piece he would deliver with dramatic effect whenever called upon to do so, until one occasion of which I will tell thee, after which he could never be induced to recite it.

A party was gathered at the house of a Mr. Triver, and Mr. Spencer being called upon to entertain the guests began his favorite piece. He had nearly reached the end; the heights of Abraham were scaled; General Wolf was dying on the ground; the last words were waited for in breathless silence. Mr. Spencer described the advent of a messenger "They run!" They run!" "Who run" asked the dying general. "Three blind mice!" interrupted a voice in the company. The uproar which followed this finally prevented the continuance of the piece. Mr. Spencer took his seat, with a flush of anger on his cheeks. He was often made the butt of a joke and usually took it good naturedly but this insult was more than his pride could brook. In vain the host entreated him to proceed. He would not be moved.

It was Mr. Marriott, an inveterate joker, who caused the interruption, and it was thought that Mr. Spencer would demand satisfaction, but, on the contrary, Mr. Marriott, advancing with a sincere apology, Mr. Spencer accepted it generously, and they two became the firmest friends.

Mr. Wallingford, the other party to the duel, was in all respects the opposite of Mr. Spencer. He was an Englishman—a tall, heavy man, with dark beetling brows and loud, arrogant voice, handsome in the manner that a mountain bull is handsome, from the appearance of great strength and courage. I describe him to thee as he really was, not as my youthful fancy saw him, for I thought him a god, in my heart, and would have married him, perhaps, except for the manner of his wooing. He was remarkable in several ways. He was the only one of all the men who paid court to me to marry before I did, for which I owe him a grudge. He was also the only man against whom my mother warned me, though her warning was of little avail to me. There is a heavy responsibility, my child, upon a parent in the matter of choosing a suitable husband for a daughter. A young girl cannot know her own heart—but why dost thou smile? Is it because I, who eloped from my father's house with the son of my father's enemy, have no right to speak upon that text? Well, I will spare thee the rest of the lectures Miss Prue, seeing that thou hast taken the man I chose for thee.

Mr. Wallingford had arrived in this country after peace was concluded with England, and though an Englishman, he was more enthusiastic about "free America" than we who had fought for independence He was not possessed of any estate, but received or pretended to receive remittances from England.

Well! Both these gentlemen were, of course, my lovers. Mr. Spencer was the first in the field, in point of time, though I never entertained a serious thought of him until after the duel, while, as I said, I came near marrying the other. Mr. Spencer's wooing was like himself, a delicate compliment or a few lines of poetry was all that he ever permitted himself. I wish I had kept some of the verses he wrote me now for a memento, but I foolishly destroyed them and cannot remember any, except that he made my name, Theodora, rhyme with "I adore her" —a very popular couplet with my poetic admirers. He was my devoted slave, which was the greatest fault I found in him, for my heart was seeking a master, not a slave, and so, when he summoned up courage enough to lay his heart and hand at my feet, I had no compunction whatever in telling him he might not hope.

He bore his disappointment bravely, and we continued to be good friends, for which I was glad, for he was an intimate friend of the Saxbys. I pretended to twit him concerning his Quaker friends, and he never failed to respond to my raillery by telling of some good action done by one or other of them. I listened eagerly to these stories, for I was deeply interested in the genial looking elderly gentleman, and no less in his handsome silent son, who was to become my husband, but from whom I could neither entice nor provoke a glance of admiration.

Mr. Wallingford, on the other hand, usually treated me as a child, except when he and I were apart from the others, when he would sink his voice into a rapturous whisper in addressing me. He hovered about me for three months before declaring himself, but I could see that his policy was to warn off other admirers, gradually taking the position of my sole cavalier.

He chose an evening when a few guests were informally gathered at my father's house to unmask himself. After supper he and I wandered into my mother's private sitting room under some pretext or another, I being nothing loth to give him the opportunity to make love to me.

"How hard it is," said he when were alone, "to have a word with you."

"I think you say a good many words to me." I replied with a smile.

We were standing, and I permitted him to lead me to a sofa, upon which he sat down also, next to me. He still retained my hand, and I waited with downcast eyes for the declaration I expected. I sat a few moments in silence, to give him time to collect his thoughts, for I had received many declarations, and was calm, while this might be his first attempt, I thought.

"I am glad to see you now," he went on. "I would rather see you in your grave than not at all."

The selfishness of his words struck me, and I looked up to meet his eyes fixed upon me with a burning light in them. I grew uncomfortable under his gaze and tried to withdraw my hand, but he would not let it go. Instead, he clasped me round the waist and tried to kiss me. I was now quite agitated. I had no brother to chastise his rudeness, and I knew that my father would only laugh at me if I complained to him. At this moment I heard a step in the passage.

"Unhand me, sir!" I cried aloud, struggling to free myself.

A figure appeared in the doorway. I was disappointed to see that it was Mr. Spencer, the last champion I would have chosen. Mr. Wallingford released me at once and turned angrily to the intruder.

"Why this interruption, sir?" he asked not trying to conceal his passion.

"They are making up a party at cards," replied Mr. Spencer. "Will you take a hand?"

I had risen, and now slipped out of the room, but paused at the door to listen. "You came here to dog me!" cried Mr. Wallingford.

"Let us go and play cards," replied Mr. Spencer. "We can easily find cause for quarrel in our play—if you play as you played last night, when you won so heavily from young Sutton."

The last words were uttered clearly and deliberately. It was the deadliest insult that could be offered in those days, short of calling a man a coward, to accuse him of cheating at cards. I waited with bated breath for the answer.

"I will break every bone in your body for this," roared Mr. Wallingford. There was bullying swagger in his tone, not the righteous indignation for an innocent man wrongfully accused.

"Mr. Marriott will receive any message you send" replied Mr. Spencer.

"He shall have it," cried Mr. Wallingford, "without delay. I have long wanted to mash you!"

"You are perhaps stronger than I," returned Mr. Spencer, "yet the battle is not always to the stronger, especially when the weapons are pistols, with ten paces between Now let us join the others. Will you precede me?"

Upon hearing these words I fled away to my own room, and passed the night in an agony of tears and self reproach. I knew that nothing now could prevent the meeting. I dared not tell any one that I knew about it, or else the whole story would come out, and moreover, I had discovered that my idol was not gold, nor even brass, but clay of the basest kind.

The meeting was arranged for the next morning. The details soon became common gossip. Two seconds were present on each side, besides a surgeon, in case of accident. It seemed a foregone conclusion that Mr. Spencer would lose his life, for he was not credited with much courage, and he was a most indifferent marksman. Mr. Spencer and his friends were first on the field, followed soon after by the opposite party. Mr. Wallingford looked pale, but walked with his accustomed swagger, until he happened to meet his opponent's eye, when he seemed to cower.

The preliminary arrangements were soon made, the men stood opposite each other, and at the word both fired together Mr. Spencer remaind standing, but Mr. Wallingford was seen to stagger and fall upon his face. All the spectators crowded round the postrate man, and the surgeon turned him over to discover the wound, but could find none. Presently Mr. Wallingford opened his eyes, and they asked him where he was hurt. He looked puzzled for a moment, then muttering, "I am not hurt," he got up, and walked off the field alone. His coward heart had failed him before the calm courage of his oponent.

Not many days afterward Mr. Wallingford found business to take him away from the neighborhood. We heard, some months afterward, that he was married to a wealthy widow in Boston, but we never saw him in our part of the country again.

Mr. Spencer was, of course, the hero of the hour, lionized and honored by everyone. If he had chosen, he could have had the pick of the belles of the country, even myself, if he had asked me again. Thou will not betray my confidence? I have told thee things that even my loved journal does not know. I have lived heart to heart with my husband for over 50 years, and know his every thought, but yet there are some little things with which I have not thought fit to trouble him. This was the only duel fought for me. It is dreadful, even now to reflect that two men took their lives in their hands for my sake. If either had died, I think I would have entered a convent, to spend the rest of my days in prayer.

Mr. Spencer and I remained good friends until his departure for the south, which journey he took in the spring following the duel. His chivalrous soul would not allow him to profit by the advantage he had gained by his display of bravery. Instead of renewing his suit to me he treated me as a brother, nor could I desire a dearer brother than himself. He perceived that I was interested in the Saxbys, and usually led our talks to his friends.

He told me a curious legend about them which I will repeat. It seems that the Saxbys had been Quakers ever since the sect was first established, always intermarrying with Quakers. For a number of generations there had only been one son in each generation to take the name. Daughters have been born, but only one son. The legend, Mr. Spencer told me, was that a witch had put a curse upon the family, to the effect that the male line should never wax greater, and that the family would die out for the want of an heir to take the name if ever a Saxby married any but a Quaker. Mr. Spencer says it is a coincidence has given rise to the legend, and my husband says it is the will of God, but I—these witches have strange powers, and I have never had a son!

* * * * * *

My grandmother ceased speaking, then appeared to listen, with a pretty color mounted to her cheek. "He is coming!" she murmured. "He must not see my cap awry!" so saying she stepped to a mirror to adjust the cap of lace and ribbons which she wore, one of the 'vanities' she affected to despise, yet loved so dearly.

"If I had become a Quaker," she continued, touching with deft fingers the soft white curls upon her forehead, "I must have given up these gay colors, and this cherry red ribbon becomes me!"

I new heard my grandfather's step approach, and soon his tall form stood in the door. My grandparents advanced to meet each other with outstretched hands, to exchange the kiss without which they never met or parted ever or the shortest interval, and so they stood, smiling into each other's eyes—lovers still.—Fred Stamper in New York Evening Post.

Nut Cracking as a Trade.

There are in Chicago a considerable number of men and women, mostly Italians, who make a fair living by cracking pea nuts. It is a recognized trade. They take orders regularly from the fruit stands and stores and supply them with cracked pea nuts. So far as possible they keep their methods in shadow. They crack them with hammers, but they get no such disheartening results as the amateur who essays the same attempt. They have no little pieces to pick up, and every kernel comes out in neat unbroken halves. This is because they soak the nuts over night in soft water.

WITH THE GRAND ARMY BOYS

The Encampment at Chambersburg Comes to a Close.

THE COMMANDER FIGHT AT AN END

The Breach Between the Two Factions Healed Up and Once More Peace Reigns in the Ranks of the Blue Coats.

Chambersburg, June 4.—Many of the veterans who are attending the state encampment here have gone home. The two chief events are over, namely, the election of the state commander and the street parade. But a large crowd remains to witness the closing exercises of the encampment and go to Gettysburg to-morrow morning. At a meeting of the encampment this morning Chief of Staff, R. P. Scott, of Post 105, on behalf of the sides of the staff, presented Commander Cummings with a rich gold past department commander's badge.

The amendments offered by Comrades Vanderslice and Hicks to select national delegates by districts was negatived. Colonel Sample's minority reported on the same subject was also defeated by a vote of 245 to 252.

A resolution was adopted to refer the subject back to a committee of five.

Assistant Adjutant General Morrison announced the vote for commander as follows: For Darte, 480; for Dentworth, 330. General J. P. S. Gobin made the report for the committee on resolutions which recommended that the national encapment change the regulations so that by a two-thirds vote of each post its members can be exonerated from the payment of dues because of inability, and per capita tax on such members can be released.

Upon all Grand Army of the Republic occasions the badge of the order shall be the only one worn. A resolution to the effect that it is the sense of the body that the sale of intoxicating liquors on Memorial day should be prohibited by legislation was adopted.

Commander-Elect Darte made an address, and representatives from the ladies Grand Army of the republic and relief and relief corps were introduced and spoke. The election resulted: Senior vice commander, W. W. H. Mackey, of Chambersburg; junior, Frank H. Button Corry; chaplin, Rev. John Sayers, Philadelphia; medical director Dr. J. G. Sloan Monongahela; council of administration, William J. Paterson; Harvey Miller and George H. Dante.

Thirty-eight delegates were elected to the national encampment, after which the newly elected officers were installed. The encampment then adjourned.

The ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic elected Mrs. Ada Shanon, of Philadelphia, president.

Thirty Pounds.

From hundreds of testimonials, the originals of which are on the file and open to inspection the following is presented.

Clayton, Nevada Co., Ark., Jan. 28, 1895.

Eureka Chemical & Mfg., Co., La Crosse Wis.—Gentlemen: For forty years I used tobacco in all its forms. For twenty-five years of that time I was a great sufferer from general debility and heart disease. For fifteen years I tried to quit, but couldn't. I took various remedies, among others "No-To-Bac," "The Indian Tobacco Antidote," "Double Chloride of Gold," etc., etc., but none of them did me the least bit of good. Finally, however, I purchased a box of your "Baco-Curo" and it has entirely cured me of the habit in all its forms, and I have increased thirty pounds in weight and am relieved from all the numerous aches and pains of the body and mind. I could write a quire of paper upon my changed feelings and condition.

Yours respectfully, P. H. MARBURY.

"I know," remarked Mr. Meekton to an intemate sriend, "that some people say Mrs. Meekton wears the er-er- pantaloons, you know, but it isn't true."

"I'm glad to hear it."

"Do you know," Mr. Meekton went on with a far away look in his eyes, "I kind of wish she would wear them once in a while! Then maybe, I'de get the suspender buttons sewed on oftener."—Washington Star.

AN ENGINEER'S MAD ACT.

Tampers With the Engine of an Excursion Steamer and is blown to Pieces.

New York, June 5.—A special from Berlin says: There was a terrible panic yesterday on an excursion steamer on Gremmener Lake. There were 250 pupils of the public schools on board the steamer. When the centre of the lake had been reached the engineer of the steamboat, a man named Stager, appeared on deck. "Teacher and children, he said, "say your last prayer, as I intend to blow up the steamer." He would do it he declared to revenge himself on the boat master. A frightful panic prevailed when members of the crew threw themselves on Stager and bound him with ropes. An investigation showed that the villian had so fixed the engine that an explosion was imminent. Boats were immediately lowered and the screaming children hurried into them. Many of the children leaped into the water. Boats arrived from shore and every one was rescued. Within a minute after the last person had been taken off the steamer exploded, Stager made a ful confession. He is thought to be insane.

Contributed $100,000.

St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—The lower house of the municipal assembly to-day passed the bill appropriating $100,000 for the relief of the tornado sufferers. The general fund footing to-night is $129,000.

Mayor Walbridge has not refused to accept moneys sent from outside cities, and has turned $15,000 thus secured to the relief committee. The mayor, however, beheves that St. Louis should be equal to the task of caring for the afflicted.

The sun shone but ten minutes to-day and frequent showers and falling temperature kept up the strain of misery among the unfortunates. At all the relief stations long lines of men and women stood waiting their turn to receive the daily allotment of food.

Destitution in East St. Louis is hourly increasing. The ladies' relief committee made a tour of the territory to-day and report 750 families absolutely homeless and destitute. Two thousand five hundred people were breakfasted by the committee today. One hundred families who found homes in freight cars were turned out in the rain to-day.

The fight for the necessities of life is a desperate one. The relief committee is having a hard time controlling the poor and making equal distribution.

At present they are expending about $1,000 a day for food, clothing and cots. They need $500 a day more.

How a Man Can Be His Own Grandfather.

I married a widow who had a daughter. My father visited my house frequently, fell in love and married my step-daughter. Thus my father became my son-in-law, and my step-daughter my mother, because she was my father's wife. My step-daughter had also a son; he was of course my brother and at the same time my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. My wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild at the same time; and as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I was my own grandfather.

Living on One Food.

We hold that a well devised dietary system does not need frequent change. All do not require to eat the same in amount or kind. Uncooked fruits and nuts suit some. Others live almost entirely on bread and oatmeal, but when the correct diet has been found it is not necessary to change. Animals in a state of nature live on one food throughout their lives.—Vetaian.

Poisoned by Eating Strawberries.

Ocean Grove, June 2.—Claude V. Guerin a lawyer, and his wife were accidentally poisoned to-day by eating strawberries. Mr. and Mrs. Guerin were made violently ill after partaking of the berries. A physician was called, who found that his patients were affected by vegetable poisoning. The supposition is that the berries were grown near ivy, and had become possessed of its dangerous properties.

SPANGLER WINS IN A JOG

But Little Opposition to the Colonel in His Race For Congress.

CARRIED EVERY PRECINCT EASILY

The Attempt to Down Him in Bellefonte The Only Serious Opposition to be Found and That Was Short Lived.—What Will The Harvest be at the Love Feast?

The Democaatic primaries on Saturday passed off as quietly as the democratic party will soon pass out of existence as far as Centre county is concerned. What the primaries lacked in excitement will be more than made up at tomorrows's convention. There are so many aspirants for office that any slate made up at this hour is but mere conjecture.

As predicted in the DAILY NEWS Col. J. L. Spangler won over D. L. Krebs in a jog. He carried every precinct in the county and it is safe to say he will go in to the convention with 79 delegates—and more if such a thing was possible.

The ticket, as it is generally predicted to day, will be as follows: Register, G. W. Rumberger; commissioner, Myer and Heckman; treasurer; Weaver; recorder. Harper; assembly, Schofield and Foster; congress, Col. J. L. Spangler. The question of Sheriff is the puzzler. It rests with Cronister, Noll and Runkle. Who the winner will be it is impossible to say. Many predict that Cronister will finally come out ahead, but the friends of Noll and Runkle seem to think not. So there the matter rests.

The results of the primaries shows the following as to delegates:

Sheriff--Noll, 19; Runkle, 16; Cronister 12; Scattering, 20; 9 Uninstructed, and 3 to be heard from. Recorder—Harper, 29: Alexander, 20. Commissioners—Myer, 32; Heckman, 16. Total number of delegates, 79; necessary to nominate 40.

Funeral of Ex-Mayor Filter.

Philadelphia, June 4.—Ex-Mayor Edwin H. Filter, who died on Sunday, was buried to-day from his late residence on Walnut street. The funeral was entirely lacking in any ostentatious display. Services were conducted by Rev. Dr. William N. McVicar and the interment was privately made at Laurel Hill cemetery. The services were attended by a large number of prominent men. The honorable pall bearers were: Governor Hastings, Mayor Warwick, George B. Roberts, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Charles C. Harrison protest of the University of Pennsylvania; Ex-Mayor William S. Strokely, John H. Michener, Thomas Dolan, William M. Singerly, Judge Craig Biddle, Frank Thompson, G. Ashton Carson, Commodore Edward Potter, Captain Richard S. Collum, Colonel Francis J. Crilly, Dr. Peter D. Keyser, George Rushton Howell, William Morton Gordon and Wescott Pailey.

The active pall bearers were members of the police and fire departments.

Held for Robbery.

Pittsburg, June 4.—Samuel Carroll, colored, was held for court today by Commissioner McCandless, on the charge of breaking into the postoffice at Ellwood City on Jan. 23. In a confession to a friend he implicates several prominent citizens of that town in the robbery. The sum stolen amounted to $1,100. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of all who participated in the robbery.

Blown up by Dynamite.

Havana, June 5.—A train which left San Nicholas with a number of workmen on board to repair damages along the line of railroad is reported to have been blown up by dynamite. The locomotive and cars composing the train were thrown into a culvert and the trainmaster and workmen were more or less seriously injured.

It's Longa Lane.

She laughed at love: "Ha, ha; ho, ho;
The man must yet be found

She laughed at love, then came a pause,
From which we must infer,
The maiden laughed at love because
Love laughed so hard at her.

DEATH FROM SCALDING.

A Little Child Upsets a Tin of Hot Water Over Itself.

The Centre Hall Reporter says: The infant daughter of Clayton Duck, deceased, and granddaughter of H. E. Duck, Esq., of Millheim, died on Tuesday morning from the effects of scalding by pulling a tin of boiling water over itself.

The little girl was about nineteen months old, and was at the home of her grandmother at Maddisonburg, where the accident occurred. The accident occurred several days previous to her death. A tin of hot water was standing on a table, and the little child reached for it, pulling it down, the hot water spilling over its face and side. Prompt medical service was given. but the burns were so deep that death resulted Tuesday morning.

Cars Built of Steel.

Pittsburg, June 4.—The Carnegie Steel company has again demonstrated that this is essentially an age of steel, and the car building industry, of the United States.

Four steel cars—two hoppers and two flats—have just been completed at the company's Keystone Bridge works department and to-night they leave for Saratoga N. Y., where they will be placed on exhibition for the edification of the Master Car Builder's association, which meets in Saratoga on the 16th inst. They are the first steel cars ever built in this country, and will beyond doubt prove to the car builders of the country that cars of like construction are entire practicable and better adopted to the requirements of freight transportation than the present carriers. Each of the hopper cars weighs 39,950 pounds and has a capacity of 100,000 pounds, and have been tested with a load of 120,000 pounds net. The two flat cars weight each 27,220 pounds, with a carrying capacity of 80,000 pounds. The test made here demonstrate satisfactorily thas a train of seventy steel cars will carry the same freight as 100 wooden cars of the latest modern construction.

Iron and Steel Trads.

Pittsburg, June 4.—The American Manufacturer in its edition to-morrow will say concerning the iron and steel trade:

The past week seems to have been unusually quiet in the local iron and steel market. General inactivity has been the status of the trade for numerous weeks past, but the last week has been decidedly monotonous. In all branches the waiting policy seems to be generally adopted. Nobody is buying anything they can do with out just now, consequently the volume of business is small. To further delay the expected improvement, troubles over the wage question are feared. According to present indications there will be difficulty in arranging terms for the coming year in some departments of mill work. However there seems to be the same faith in the future and the same belief that a big improvement is not far off.

Will Increase Its Capital Stock.

Pittsburg, June 4.—The stockholders of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company held a special meeting today to vote upon a proposition to increase the capital stock of the company from $10.000,000 to $15,000,000. Mr. George Wastinghouse, jr., the president of the company, occupied the chair. The proposition was affirmatively voted upon by the entire stock represented, amounting to 139,237 shares. The company decided upon the increase of the stock for the purpose of paying off the cost of the new works and for such purposes as have become necessary through the increase in the company's business. The new stock will take the same rank as the assenting stock of the company.

The Saddle Question.

Shows pelvis as it rests on the ordinary saddle.

This is an illustration of the old style saddle. If you will observe it carefully you will note that it fits like a glove (and a saddle should not). It presses the sensitive parts, causes soreness, stiffness and chafing, and has made cycling to a certain extent injurious, because few could enjoy a long ride without fear of injury.

All this is now changed. Here is represented the perfect saddle—the Christy Anatomical Saddle, showing the pelvis as it rests on the pads. The Christy Anatomical Saddle is the only saddle that is built right. Made of metal, of light weight, cannot warp or change its shape, has pads that rest the entire body, does not press the sensitive parts, prevents stiffness, and makes cycling a pleasure.

Shows pelvis as it rests on the Christy Saddle.

In Germany careful records are kept of the trees struck by lightning. It appears that oaks are more frequently struck than any kind of tree, the fir comes next in order. After them comes the pines, but rarely and no beeches. The proportion of the various kinds of trees in the German forest is: Beeches, 70 per cent; oaks 11 per cent; pines, 13 per cent. Notwithstanding the small percentage of oaks, more of these trees are struck than of all the rest of the trees put together. Beeches seem almost exempt and would therefore seem to be a comparatively safe place to take refuge during a thunder storm.

SAY, husband, your wife has had many perplexities to-day. The cook has kicked; the housemaid has been in hysterics because your wife told her she thought she had too many relatives calling on her. The baby burnt his finger, the milk went sour, and the neighbor's boy tied a tomato can to the cat's tail. Your neighbor's daughter has been practicing on the piano eight hours at a stretch. Take the scowl off your face and leave it on the hall rack with your hat. It may belong to the office but not to the home.

—That will do; you have worried nough through the day. Don't take business bothers home with you. Just quit thinking abou them. Your dinner will taste more natural.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C. June 8th 1896

Ho for St. Louis! is the cry of a majority of the republican senators and representatives just now. Many of them are delegates to the convention and many more wish to be on hand when the next president of the United States is named, and just as soon as the gavel falls for adjournment, —which will be in a very few hours—not later than Wednesday—they will pack their grips and start. The meeting of the National Committee, in St. Louis this week, to make up the temporary roll of the convention, will be second in importance only to the meeting of the convention itself, and many Congressmen besides those who are members of the committee, will start from Washington in time to be there at its opening on Wednesday.

No surprise was caused by the veto of the general deficiency appropriation bill on account of the items making an appropriation for the French spoliation claims, which have been before Congress in one or another shape for nearly 100 years, and another appropriation for a private claim. The House promptly sustained the veto and passed another deficiency bill with those and several other items left out. The objectional items were placed in the bill by the Senate and were virtually forced on the House by the insistence of the Senate Conferees.

The report of the chairman Dingley, of the House Ways and Means committee against the Senate bill prohibiting the issue of bonds without special authority of Congress, which was signed by all of the republican members of the committee. and by two democrats—Turner of Ga., and Cobb of M.,—it is considered to be an able and comprehensive document. The following extract from the report shows the committee to be in line with republican policy of preserving the credit of the country at all hazards: "One excuse which has been given for the passage of the Senate bill is that the secretary of the Treasury has sold bonds to syndicates instead of offering them first as popular loans. While we sympathize with this criticism, yet this affords substantial ground for amending the act of 1875 so as to require bonds issued under it to be offered to the American people, and not ground for the absolute repeal of all authority to borrow in an exigency. Another excuse is that the Secretary of the treasury has indirectly issued and sold bonds to meet the deficiency of revenues, by using the redeemed U. S. Legal Tender notes for current expenses, and thus placing them in a position for second redemption. This affords ground for such legislation as will make it practically impossible to continue this practice, but not satisfactory ground for taking from the Secretary all power to borrow for the purpose of maintaining the redemption fund." The report raps the administration hard for refusing to officially recognize the deficit in the revenues, and the Senate for its refusal to pass the emergency tariff bill and other relief measures passed by the House early in the Session.

Hon. C. M. Barnett. Chairman of the State Republican Committee, of Ky., who has been visiting Washington, says of the outlook in that state: "Kentucky will give a majority for the republican ticket in November of from 25,000 to 30,000 votes. I expect to see a republican elected in every Congressional district save one,—the first—and it is doubtful whether the democrats will carry that."

In summing up the work done at this session of Congress republicans find nothing to reproach themselves with. although they may regret that the Senate did not pass several important bills which the House passed. The republicans of the House, the only branch of Congress controlled by the party, can return to their constitutents with the proud boast—if it be boasting to state the literal truth—that so far as their votes are concerned they have filled every pledge made by the party platforms upon which they were elected. Needed appropriations have been made for internal improvements, although it involved the overthrow of the Presidential veto to it; Harbor defenses and the continued strengthening of our Navy have been provided for; the pension laws have been amended in the interest of justice to the old soldiers, and other desirable legislation such as the bill providing an educational tests for imigrants, the bankruptcy bill, the labor commission bill, and the revenue bill, which would have wiped out the deficit had it become a law, have been passed by the republicans of the House Mr. Dingley truly said: "The House ha been working steadily since the session began, and has done more work than many sessions which have lasted three months longer." If the republicans have controlled both branches of Congress the fear that there will be another issue of bonds before Congress meets again would not exist, because there would have been legislation to make it unnecessary.

Physical Training

"What do you think of athletic education for women?" was asked of Charles Warner by the editor of The Inlander. He replies:

"I will answer this question by asking another—Why do not women need as complete and harmonious development as man?

"I believe that women require a different gymnastic training from men. I would not cultivate an abnormal athletic development in either sex, but I would train each into as perfect men and women as possible.

"I believe further that physical training, which tends to produce the ideal figure in man or woman, grace of movement, ease of action and endurance, in short, normal health, is as essential to moral as it is to mental soundness. It is an old maxim that the mind works best in a sound body, and I am sure that any student will be intellectually fitter to cope with his studies if he is vigorous in body and has all his physical powers in good working order.

"If you will allow me to go a little further, I will say that it is the testimony of experts who have superintended the training of girls, that gymnastics, suited always to the individual and to the sex, are not only an intellectual stimulus of great value, but that girls who are so trained make the best wives and are the best fitted for the general duties of life."

Good Health

And a good appetite go hand in hand With the loss of appetite, the system cannot long sustain itself. Thus the fortification of good health are broken down and the system is liable to attacks of disease. It is in such cases that the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla testify to its great merits as a purifier of the blood its powers to restore and sharpen the appetite and promote a healthy action of the digestive organs. Thus it is, not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story and constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine. Why not take Hood's Sarsaparilla now?

Philadelphia, June 9.—Herman Keck, a diamond merchant of Cincinnati, who was recently convicted in the United States district court of attempting to smuggle diamonds valued at $7,000 into this port from Antwerp, was to-day sentenced to one year's imprisionment in the eastern penitentiary and fined $200.

Captain Loeswitz, of the steamer Rhynland, has also been indicted on the same charge, jewels having been brought here on that vessel.

Maud—Thanks! I'll try it.—Rochester Advertiser

The Crop Report

Washington, June 9.—The weekly telegraph crop reports of the weather bureau were issued to-day as follows: Pennsylvania—Wheat, rye and hay somewhat improved; corn, oats, potatoes, vegetables and most fruits continue promising; insect pests troublesome; meadows and pastures short and thin.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Traveling Dresses; Dust Cloaks; New Sleeves; Independent Waists; Graduating Dresses Shade Hats:

The traveling dress and general street costume are now so nearly allied, that scarcely a distinction exists, and for either purpose, light weight cotton canvas is the newest material. A new jacket back is noticeable in cotton canvass suits—very short, with four plaits, and as a matter of course, the usual jacket front with lace or chiffon vest for street wear and silk for traveling, It must not be inferred however that mixed wools or brilliantine are no longer in favor for traveling dresses. These suits posess the advantage of having jacket and shirt waist, the former supplying additional warmth, or dispensed with at pleasure. Handsome dust cloaks are of changeable or striped taffetta silk, or of monair made in circular shape with "Connemara" hood.

THE SMALL SLEEVE.

is not only on its way, but is practically here, regarding costumes of medium weight fabrics; but organdies and independent silk waists, intended for fashionable watering places, have sleeves just as large as ever. A coat sleeve with rather a small puff at the top, leaving the elbow (and arm a few inches) above in sight, is certainly a marked change. A very strong tendency towards added basques with jacket fronts, is noticeable in the new silk waist, elaborately trimmed, and fancy vests. A white silk muslin waist, composed throughout of inch and a half wide tucks, is a very recent idea; but to all costumes and seasons, the fragrance of Murray and Lanman's Florida water imparts an indefinable charm never lost amid other attractions.

AMONG BEAUTY PRODUCING

factors on waists in general, none are more important than belts and collars that contrast with the dress. Delightful harmonies result, when plain fabrics are relieved by Dresden or fancy ribbons or when similar colorings in gowns take on new richness by belts and collars of plain velvet or velutina. The latter is most satisfactory, since ts close, soft pile renders it quite superior to ordinary grade silk velvet, while from moderate prices one can discard when at all worn also worn and also indulge in greater variety, the more easily too, since it comes in every new shade.

THE FIRST OBJECT

in a graduating dress is simplicity, and this is best carried out by a sheer white organdy dress over many thin skirts, and usually a deep hem is preferred to rows of lace insertion, which are admissable but not in the best taste. Colored silk under organdy is in vogue for those who desire color, and dotted Swiss muslin or white satin-striped silk supply the variety which seems always in demand. Round waists, either plain or with rows of insertion across, wide lace or a sleeve cape of the dress material edged by lace, ribbon shoulder knots or yoke effects, full elbow puffs, finished by lace and ribbon; furnish a general out line for graduating dresses.

HATS FOR CITY AND COUNTY USE

resemble each other to an unusual extent as the majority are large, and probably be come still larger. Shaded ribbon loops on a black lace foundation brim, with a flower cluster at the back, is a serviceable style, at the same time not so striking as forcasts of colored tulle frills and ruchings; from which project four wings causing a hat to measure eighteen inches across. Flowers massed at the back, are now inseparable from all large hats. Exquisite combinations of tulle and flowers on large Leghorns are unapproached by any other styles; but shirred, and frilled mousseline-de-soie hats. in pale pink, white or blue, come without reasonable expenditures, and are very soft and attractive.

Advice Not to Be Discounted

The following is sensible advice: "Drink nothing without seeing it, sign nothing without reading it, and make sure that it means nothing more than it says. Don't go to law unless you have nothing to lose; lawyers' houses are built on fools' heads. In any business never wade in water where you cannot see the bottom. Put no dependence on a label of a bag, and count money before you accept it. See the sack open before you buy what is in it, for he who trades in the dark asks to be cheated."

The body must be well nourished now, to prevent sickness. If your appetite is poor take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CHAIRMAN THURSTON.

Nebraska Senator May Preside at the Republican Convention.

SAID TO BE M'KINLEY'S CHOICE.

The Temporary Chairman, It Is Asserted, Will be C. W. Fairbanks, of Indianapolis. A Denial of the Story That Colored Men Are Discriminated Against.

ST. LOUIS, June 10.—Politicians great and small, black and white and all the intermediate shades of complexion, from all over the Union, are swarming into this city. For the last week they have been dropping in at odd intervals by ones and twos. But now they are coming by the car load, and it will be a week before they will have all arrived. Although it is almost a week until the Republican national convention will be called to order, there is a vast amount of preliminary work to be done. There are scores of contests to be argued before the national committee, and added to this is a vast deal of routine work to be done.

It is given out here as "authentic" that C. W. Fairbanks, of Indianapolis, is the choice of McKinley and Hanna for temporary chairman of the convention. Hon. John M. Thurston, of Nebraska, will be permanent chairman. This is also declared to be authentic. These selections come in the nature of a surprise, as neither had been prominently mentioned during the canvass for the positions.

James Cox, secretary of the Business Men's league, denied emphatically that the negroes were being discriminated against. He said that Committeeman Hill, of Mississippi, had no right to complain if he could not find hotel accommodations. A letter had been written to him more than a month ago telling him that unless early application was made all the rooms at the hotels would be taken. In this letter the league offered to engage rooms for Hill and the Mississippi delegation, but he did not not reply. "Furthermore," continued Mr. Cox, "Mr. Hill has not been to see us since he came to the city. If he will come here we will find him good rooms and board. All this talk about the color line is nonsense. We made the promise to take care of the colored delegates and will do so. If they will not come to the committee to let us know that they desire rooms and accommodations, that is not our fault."

Among the representatives from the west the name of M. H. DeYoung, member of the national committee from California and a strong advocate of free silver, is already being urged in connection with the nomination for the vice presidency. Regarding a possible bolt Mr. DeYoung said: "Some of the western delegates are very radical and talk about leaving the convention in case they fail to have their views adopted. This action will not be general. It is generally known that Colorado, under she leadership of Teller, proposes to walk out of the convention. The California delegation has been instructed for McKinley and free silver. But our delegation does not intend to leave the party nor the convention in case of the failure of that nature."

Mr. M. A. Hanna, the manager of Major McKinley's canvass, arrived here this forenoon.

Chairman Carter, of the national Republican committee, arrived last night from Washington with several other members who came from the east. General Clarkson, the member from Iowa, is ill at Philadelphia and cannot be at the meeting.

J. H. Manley, a member of the committee from Maine, who is the chief manager of Thomas B. Reed's campaign, also came in last night. He said he was not prepared to say how many votes Mr. Reed would get on the first ballot. When asked if Mr. Reed would accept the nomination for vice president he answered: "Under no circumstances will Mr. Reed take the nomination for vice president. You cannot make that too emphatic. He will have the first place on the ticket or none at all."

Said a prominent Republican leader this morning: "Major McKinley is a sound money man. He will be nominated as such on the first ballot. There will be no humbug of an informal ballot, as some of the anti-McKinley people are talking." This seems to be the general opinion among the Republican leaders here who have expressed opinions.

The gavel which will be used by the permanent chairman of the convention was received at the headquarters of the local committee Monday. It will be presented to the chairman by Senator Berry, of the Illinois delegation. The gavel is an excellent piece of wood carving from a hickory log taken from the log cabin occupied by President Lincoln in New Salem, Ills., in 1832. There are panels on either side which are filled in with suitably inscribed plates of gold and silver.

Women are notoriously careless of their health—even more so than men. Much of their trouble comes from chronic constipation. That makes poor appetite, biliousness, dyspepsia, causes distress after eating, dizziness, coated tongue and sallow complexion. It's such a common thing that people are careless about it—so careless that more serious sickness ensues and frequent visits to the doctor become necessary.

It really seems strange, when the remedy is so easy, that so many people will allow themselves to remain subject to such troubles. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. That means that they are good for biliousness, sick and bilious headaches, indigestion, sour stomach, liver troubles, windy belchings, "heart-burn," flatulence and dyspepsia. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules that the merest child will take readily. They are mild, gentle, quick and efficient. They are of purely vegetable composition and work in strict accord with nature. They cause no griping and are as pleasant in their action as they are pleasant to take. Their help lasts. Therefore you don't become a slave to their use as with other pills. Once used they are always in favor. One little Pellet is a laxative, two are mildly cathartic. One Pellet taken after dinner will promote digestion and to relieve distress from over eating they are unequaled.

CAUTION.—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—it's an easy name to remember. Don't let a designing druggist talk you into "something just as good." He makes more money on the "just as good" kind. That's why he would rather sell them. That's why you had better not take them.

For a free sample (4 to 7 doses) of "Pleasant Pellets," address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Observance of Flag Day.

The Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution at a recent meeting passed resoluteons in regard to the observance of Flag Day and the publishing of the Declaration of Independance which are as follows:

Whereas, the Continental Congress on the 14 day of June, 1777, passed the following resolutions:

"RESOLVED, That the flag of the thirteen States be thirteen stripes. alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field representing a new constellation."

And Whereas, The movement to have the 14th day of June known as Flag Day, and the same forever hereafter observed by the display of the American Flag from every home in the land, has been inaugurated.

Therefore resolved, That this Board heartily endorsed the said movement, and earnestly expresses the hope that every member of this Society will display the national flag on said day; and that, with the view of having the day so observed throughout the county, the secretary be directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, the Governors of the States and Territories, the Superintendents of Public Schools, and the various patriotic organizations in Pennsylvania, the Press Associations, the General Society and State Societies of the Sons of the Revolution, and the members of this Society.

And furthermore resolved, That we earnestly recommend and respectfully request that the newspapers revive the practice of former days by publishing in their columns the full text of the declaration of independence, on the day before, or on some convenient day prior to, the Fourth of July.

THEY ARE NEARING THE END.

The Senate and House are Getting Ready to Quit Work.

Washington, June 10.—Business of the first session of the Fifty-fourth congress was practically concluded to-day by the agreement of the two bodies upon the sundry and District of Columbia appropriation bills—the only remaining matters of difference between the two houses when they met this morning. To accomplish this the house voted to concur with the senate in its amendments to the sundry civil bil appropriating, direct and contingent, $900,000 for certain public building. This vote —100 yeas to 88 nays—demonstrated what had been feared would not be found, a quorum of members still in the city. The senate agreed with the house provision in the district bill, cutting off appropriations to religious, benevolent and charitable institutions, amended so as to make the new policy effective June 30, 1897.

Previous to reaching this conclusion the house passed many measures under suspension of the rules, among them the following:

House bill to protect the timber on the public domain and forests reservations from the ravages of the fire caused by malicious or careless campers or others.

Concurrent resolutions directing the secretary of the interior to resume the issuing of patents to the Union Pacific Railroad company for the lands within its grant sold to bonafide purchasers.

Joint resolution extending the scope of the good roads investigation now being conducted by the agricultural department.

Senate joint resolution appropriating $4,000 to provide a foundation for a statue for General Hahnemann, to be erected in Washington by the National Homœopathic society.

Forbidding the landing upon the shores of the United States of a foreign submarine cable without the consent of congress.

Setting aside the Pacific forest reserve, on Mount Tamoca, for the public park, to be known as Washington National park.

Opening national ceremonies to the burial of army nurses.

To protect public forest reservation.

Appropriating $500,000 for the benefit of the Omaha exposition.

Amending the shipping laws by providing still further for the comfort and well being of sailors.

Forbidding the transportation of liquor under false brands or names.

Committee on elections No. 1 was authorized to take further evidence in the contest election case of Hopkins, republican, vs. Kendall, democrat, from the Tenth Kentucky district—the only case now remaining in the committee.

Mr. Allen, democrat of Mississippi, broke the silence which has marked him during the session and entertained the house with the humorous speech which has become a feature of the closing days of congressional sessions.

Upon the consideration of the conference report on the District appropriation bill a general political discussion was precipitated by Mr. Cannon, republican, of Illinois, chairman of the committee on appropriation, who briefly reviewed the legislation of the session.

Messrs. Sayers, democrat, of Texas, and Dockery, democrat, o Missouri, responded, charging the republicans with unparalleled extravagence. Mr. Dingley, republicad, of Main, defended the republican policy in the house and in the nation.

The concurrent resolution for final adjournment of congress at 4 p. m. to-morrow was received from the senate and agreed to.

Abroad Ships.

Sea voyages are usually deemed promotive of health. So they are in most cases. But it may well be doubted if the sinking up aboard ship, which people of very fragile constitution and weak nerves get, is not prejudicial if its effects are not averted or nullified by a medicinal safeguard. The best, if we are to believe the testimony of ocean travelers, whether they go abroad for health, pleasure or business, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Invalids, commercial travelers, sea captains and yatchmen concur in recommending this find deffensive tonic. So do emigrants to the frontier, the inhabitants of malarious regions, and all who are exposed to hardship or rigors of climate. For malarial, rheumatic or kidney trouble, nervousness dyspepsia, liver complaint and constipation it is eminently efficacious, and reommended by the medical fraternity far and near.

INVESTIGATE THIS.

And its in Bellefonte, Not in San Francisco. Any Citizen can Verify This.

"Honesty is the best policy." That old adage has always been a characteristic of the article endorsed by an Allegheny Street Groceryman. Not only has honesty been the mainstay of the claims made for the old Quaker remedy but it is the bulwark of the testimonials published in its behalf when you know that a citizen perhaps a neighbor prefaces his statement with a tribute like that which follows. The testimony not only is interesting, remarkably strong, but it carries with it that irresistible influence that sweeps away every vestige of incredulity. What do our readers think of this? "I have so much confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills that after I got my first box at Green's Pharmacy I went back and bought six more." What more can the greatest scoffer at proprietary medicines in Bellefonte want. Read the rest of the testimony. "Besides running this grocery I have looked after three estates. This constant strain has told on me and as time passes by I find that my health is not what it was at one time. I am troubled with kidney complaint. It shows itself in backache, headache and scanty yet frequent urination. While I am not laid up I suffer a great deal. Now I do not claim that Doan's Kidney Pills have cured me—for they have not—but I received so much benefit from one box I determined to continue their use. I believe from the progress made that I will eventually eradicate every vestage of trouble for my appetite has improved and I can rest comfortably at night."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Hitches in Compulsory Education.

The latest hitch in the compulsory education law grows out of the failure of the act to say where the money is to come from to pay the assessors. The act is liberal and specific in marking out work for the assessors. It says the assessors must make a school census in every school district every spring. They must compile a careful and correct list of all children between the ages of eight and thirteen, giving the name, ages and residence and stating whether the child is in charge of parent, guardian or other person. The assessors are also called upon to make return of such other information as may be deemed necessary. All this data is to be registered in a substantial book and turned over to the County commissioners. The Commissioners are to certify the enumeration to the secretaries of the school districts, who will, in turn, supply the teacher of each school with a list of all children compelled by the law to attend that particular school.

The act also says that the assessor must not be more than ten days in taking the school population of his district, recording the various kinds of information required in the substantial book and making his report to the County Commissioners. It will occur to most persons that the assessor is called upon to do a good deal of work in a rather short space of time, and the doubt will arise whether in many districts a thorough census can be made in the time given for the work. But this is not the question.

The act also says that the assessors shall be paid five dollars a day, and there the author of the bill seems to have thought that his own work was finished and that somebody else could assume the responsibility of deciding where the money was to come from with which to pay the assessors But nobody can assume that responsibility without assuming the risk also of getting into trouble and of having to pay the assessors out of their own pockets. The local officials have no business to assume what the act leaves in the dark, and in some of the counties of the State the compulsory school law will continue to be a dead letter for some time to come.

The fact is the time chosen for the passage of the law was most inopportune. The prices of farm products having been going from bad to worse and the people of the State are in no condition to assume additional expenses. They feel that they have not been able to look after their own interests, to build good roads and make much needed public improvements, and yet they are called upon to put up money to educate the children of ignorant foreigners, imported to job lots by corporations, to the crowding out of native labor, which would be much better off if the Hungarians and Poles had stayed at home. It would be only just if the concerns which have profited by the cheap labor should be called upon to pay this cost of a compulsory education law, though to be made necessary by the presence of ignorant foreigners in the State. Possibly the next Legislature may make the law effective. In the meantime compulsory education remains a thing of the future.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Loss Was Small.

Hazleton, Pa., June 9.—A fire that threatened the town of Berwick, Columbia county, with destruction broke out in William Ross's blacksmith shop, near the postoffice, at 4 o'oclock this morning. A strong wind carried the flames westward on Bright's alley, where a row of barns stood. The entire block, extending to Mulberry street, was destroyed. The firemen devoted their efforts to saving the buildings on the opposite side of the street and prevent the spread of the flames. Total loss foots up $8.000.

COMPETITOR PRISONERS

Visited by Consul General Lee at Cabannas Fortress.

TO RECEIVE BETTER TREATMENT.

General Weyler Promises That They Shall be Removed from Their Dungeon to Better Quarters—General Gomez Greatly Pleased with General Weyler's "Trocha."

HAVANA, June 10.—On Sunday afternoon United States Consul General Lee visited the Cabanas fortress and saw Julio Sanguilly and the prisoners taken on board the schooner Competitor. General Lee found them shut up in a dungeon with negro prisoners. Alfredo Laborde, who is said to have been the leader of the Competitor expedition, and who is an American citizen, was found to be very sick. He said that he was suffering from grip, and that the doctor had said that he would get better care while confined in the fortress than in the hospital. Laborde did not complain of bad treatment, though the air of the dungeon where he was confined was damp and the walls moist.

Consul General Lee, having learned that the officer of the guard was reprimanded by the governor of the fortress for allowing the visit, visited Captain General Weyler to offer his excuses. Captain General Weyler, however, apparently did not think badly of General Lee's visit to the prisoners, although it contravened the rules and laws of the fortress. General Lee informed Weyler of the sickness of the prisoners and of the bad condition of their dungeon. General Weyler promised that they should be placed in a better situation.

Jose Maceo, Perico Perez and Rabi have entered the town of Jiguani, province of Santiago de Cuba, which was defended by a garrison of eighteen Spanish soldiers. General Gasco afterwards dislodged the insurgents from Jiguani. No further details of this engagement have been received.

The insurgents who were recently defeated at Ventas and Casaniva were under the leadership of Calixto Garcia. Major Ramos had a skirmish at Puenta Brava, this province. The insurgents lost two killed and the troops lost a lieutenant and four guerillas killed and five men wounded.

Maximo Gomez is reported to be in the province of Puerto Principe preparing something to distract the attention of the government. In the meanwhile Carillo is advancing westward, and Maceo is overrunning Pinar del Rio.

GENERAL GOMEZ'S EMISSARIES.

The Cuban Commander, They Say, Is Pleased with Weyler's "Trocha."

NEW YORK, June 10.—Two Americans came through the Spanish lines with Lieutenant Arteaga, General Gomez's aide, who arrived in New York city on Monday. They were Messrs. Betancourt and Hilligans. Both were members of the Illinois state militia, and went to Cuba on the Torre expedition last November, and worked their way up to the rank of first lieutenant. Now they are in co-operation with Lieutenant Arteaga in fitting out an important expedition.

Associated with them in this work is Major Tomas Rosser Roemer, who also was with Gomez. These four men have credentials signed by the commander-in-chief, Maximo Gomez, which constituted each of them a commissioner to forward supplies of ammunition to the insurgent army. As soon as these arrangements have been perfected these commissioners will return to Cuba.

"The trocha is not much more difficult to pass than any other Spanish line," said Lieutenant Arteaga. "Our messengers go back and forth at will. General Gomez is much pleased with the trocha. He says: 'I have 30,000 Spaniards shut in along that trocha line. I wish Weyler would establish more. They are as good as prisoners. As long as the Spaniards are there they do not bother me. In fact, they die along that ditch faster than they would be killed in battle and with infinitely less trouble to our troops.'

"That is true. The ditch is broad and ten feet deep. In this season it is full of water, from which rises a vapor that is bad for Spanish constitutions. The fever is doing more for us than bullets."

Fatal Accident at a Horse Race.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 10.—The last race at Exposition Park yesterday resulted in a fatal accident. Benny Vail, who had the mount on Al Watts, was badly injured and he died before he could be carried from the track. The horse was killed. As they came around the course into the back stretch Al Watts was next to last, and Mrs. S. was trailing behind. Al Watts attempted to bolt, and Vail leaned over to take another turn on the reins, but as he did so, his hand slipped, and the horse got his head and fell, rolling over the boy. Mrs. S., coming up, leaped over the horse and rider. Vail, who lived in Kansas City, leaves a widow and several children.

Dervishes Repulsed with Heavy Loss.

FIRKET, Egypt, June 8.—This point was taken by Egyptian troops at an early hour yesterday morning, and their manner of acquitting themselves in this, the first engagement of the Nile campaign, has given satisfaction to the British officers in command of them. Reports so far received indicate that the loss to the dervishes will amount to a thousand men. Among those killed is Emir Hammuda, who was their commander, besides many important chiefs. The Egyptian loss was twenty killed and eighty wounded.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 9.—An accident caused by the premature explosion of a blast occurred in the Norton cement quarries at Binnewater, near this city. Hibernian Proceedings.

Williamsport, June 10.—At this morning's session of the convention of the Ancient Order of Hiberians, State President Patrick G'Neill read his report of the work of two years. McKean, Bradford, Venango and Erie counties have been organized, and Carbon county reorganized. Several ladies auxiliaries have been organized. He touched upon the oportunity to be offered to learn the Irish language and referred to the A. P. A. as an organization "begotten of intolerance and bigotry" and predicted a short life for it. The committee on the standing of the order reported an increase. Greetings were received from National Secretary M. J. Slatter and T. T. Powderly, the ex-master workmen of the Knights of Labor. The committee on insurance reported that they had no scheme and it was left to the coming executive board to formulate a plan. The committee on by-laws decided unon some changes, but this convenion will not act upon them.

Philipsburg Turned Down.

The Philipsburg Ledger has the following to say which is spicy and interesting at this time;

Philipsburg politicians like the King of Spain, "March up the hill and then march down again." Democrats and Republicans, alike, every campaign pluck up fresh courage, boom a candidate from this end of the county and march boldly to the county seat buoyant in the hope of getting something this time; and they do get the same old dose, every time. Philipsburg isn't in it for county offices and the attempt to secure political plums for this end of the county might as well be abandoned. The convention at Bellefonte yesterday followed the time honored precedent, and our candidates for the nomination of sheriff returned empty of honors and convinced that "all men are liars." The auditor's sop is thown to Philipsburg.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Eggs by the Gallon.

Eggs are now imported into Great Britain from Russia shelled, beaten up and preserved in hermetically sealed tins, from which they are drawn off through a tap.

Eggs in this condition are principally used by pastry cooks, and the advantages claimed for the system are freedom from damages in transport and long keeping qualities. The tin or drum is packed with straw in a wooden case and holds the contents of 1,000 to 1,500 eggs, the white and yolk being mixed together, poured into the drum and the aperture closed with a bung and sealed.

Righteously Indignant.

"You bad boy!" exclaimed the horrified young woman, "you ought not to throw stones at those innocent little sparrows! They have never done you any harm. And besides," she added, "for hat ornaments the ugly things aren't worth ten cents a dozen."—Chicago Tribune.

STATUE OF A HERO.

That of General Meade Unveiled at Gettysburg Yesterday.

Gettysburg, Pa., June 5.—The equestrian statue erected by the state of Pennsylvania in honor of the memory of General Gordon Meade, commanding the Army of the Potomac, was unveiled this morning in the presence of a large number of distinguished military officers and civilians. The ceremonies opened with music, followed by prayer. Master George Gordon Meade, a grandson of the dead hero, unveiled the statue, Light Battery C, Third United States artillery, fired a salute. Dedicatory exercises were then conducted by George G. Meade post No. 1, department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic. The statue was then formally delivered to the governor of the commonwealth by Brevet Brigadier General J. P. S. Gobin, of the commission which had charge of the erection of the statue.

Governor Daniel H. Hastings of Pennsylvania, received the statue on behalf of the commonwealth in a few brief and appropriate words.

Upon the conclusion of the governor's remarks Brevet Major General Davis McM. Gregg, who commanded the second cavalry division at Gettysburg, was introduced as the orator of the day.

The exercises were held at the site of the monument, just in the rear of the Bloody Angle. On the stand were seated Governor and Mrs. Hastings; Adjutant General Stewart and the entire governor's staff Major General Nelson A. Miles, United States army; Brigadier General John R. Brooke, United States army; Major General David McM. Gregg; Colonel George G. Meade, the son of the general; Attorney General McCormic, Auditor General Mylin; State Treasurer Haywood, General Latta, Private Secretary Beitler, Colonel John P. Nicholson, Hon. Henry H. Bingham, Major William H. Robbins and Major Charles H. Richardson, of the Gettysburg Nation park commission, and General John P. Taylor, Major W. H. Hartshorne and Colonel R. Bruce Rickets, of the Pennsylvania monument commission; H. K. Brush Brown, the sculptor of the Meade statue and W. E. Elwells the sculptor of the Hancock monument.

Chaplain Stevens, of Meade post No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, made the invocation. When the flags fell from the statue a great shout went up from the crowd that ceased only with a roar of the cannon in salute.

At the conclusion of General Gregg's oration Major General Miles, Brigadier General Brooke and Sculptor Brush Brown made short addresses.

Seeking Information.

A lady riding on a railroad train was quite annoyed by the fixed stare of a long, lank, leathery looking woman sitting just across the aisle. She had piercing black eyes, and she kept them fixed on the lady's face.

Finally the train stopped at a little station, and the keen eyed woman leaned across the aisle and, laying a bony, ring loved hand on the lady's arm, said:

"Scuse me, ma'am, but kin I ask you a question?"

"Certainly."

"Well, I jist wanted to know if your complexion is natchereel or if it's one of these inameled kind I've heerd of?"

"My complexion is natural, madam."

"It is? Well, I'm jist sorry to hear it. I was hopin' it was one of the inameled kind and that you could tell me where I could git one like it. That's all. Thank you, ma'am," and she resumed her fixed gaze.—Detroit Free Press.

Nursing a Sore Foot.

Bruce Garman of this place is just at present nursing a very sore foot which gives him considerable inconvenience. He stepped on a stone the other day and sprained his right instep and the injured member seems to resist every method of treatment.

—There are ten prisoners at Fort Condo at present.

The "Road Hog."

One of the greatest difficulties wheelmen have to contend with is the 'road hog.' By this I mean teamsters and other travelers who refuse to turn out and seem to think that they alone are entitled to the privileges and benefit of the public highways. The sooner this class of people are made understand that the public thoroughfares were not made solely for them, the better it will be, for come this must, and it has now centered down to only a matter of time until it does. For the benefit of all concerned it cannot come any too soon.

"Road Hogs" and their relatives and friends should keep constantly in mind the following Pennsylvania State Law passed in 1889 which says:

"Bicycles, Tricycles and all Vehicles propelled by hand or foot and all persons by whom bicycles, tricycles and other vehicles are used, ridden or propelled upon the public highways of this state shall be entitled to the same rights and subject to the same restrictions, in the use thereof, as prescribed by law in the case of persons using carriages drawn by horses."

Many who violate the above probably do not know that such a law exists. Should an example be made of some of these violators the balance would not be long in finding it out and there would be little danger of them courting the same fate. In nine cases out of ten where teamsters and others refuses to turn out to allow wheelmen to pass, it is because they are too low to do so through politeness, and think that they not only should not turn out but in fact could not be compelled to. They, everyone seem to realize that, at least for the time being, they possess the advantage over the wheelmen, inasmuch as a wagon and bicycle differ so greatly in size and strength that the riders could not forcibly compel them to turn out as the bicycles would meet certain destruction in the attempt. This is another reason why an example should be made of these "road hogs," who not only violate the law, but also take undue advantage of those (the wheelmen) whose privileges and rights on the public thoroughfares are on a par with those of any travellers.

That it would be a great blessing to wheelmen in many ways if the forgoing stated law were rigidly enforced can readily be seen. They would escape many inconveniences which are now forced upon them and which they certainly should not be compelled to undergo—and it is to be hoped will not long be the case. Then again take into consideration the number of accidents to riders and their wheels that would be thus averted. Suppose, for instance, that a person is riding down a hill and that the road is very narrow. He meets a team coming towards him, the driver refuses to turn out and he is compelled to run in along the edge of the road and struggle over rough and stony ground What is the result! He may escape all right, and then he may not. He may be thrown and sustain serious injuries and perhaps have his wheel ruined besides. This surely cannot be just and should not be tolerated.

If the law quoted in a foregoing paragraph was deemed necessary to be passed,—and it certainly was—it is far more necessary that it be enforced, and rigidly at that. Wheelmen have their rights and they should not be compelled to suffer inconveniences and indignities at the hands of teamsters and other ignorant travelers when there is law to protect them.

Caused by Jealousy.

Steubenville, O., June 7.—A fatal shooting occurred to-day at Mingo Junction, for which jealousey was the cause. George Urich was seated in the back yard of his boarding house when John Povlowich, an Austrian, who had just come to work at the furnace, came up, and, without warning, shot Urich twice in the back. Povlowich said before leaving the mill he would do Urich. He was arrested after a chase of two miles, and he may be lodged in jail here for safe keeping as the Austrian colony is incensed and may lynch him.

out in the rain

A good drenching in a cold rain is often the beginning of consumption. Yet no one claims that the germs of this disease existed in the rainwater. Then how was this brought about? The exposure was followed by a cold; the vitality was lowered; the cough continued for some weeks; the throat and lungs became congested; and thus all the conditions were favorable for the growth of the consumption germs.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with hypophosphites, does not directly attack these germs and kill them. But it does tone up the whole system and restores the body to health before serious harm is done. The germs of consumption thrive best when the system is weakened and the throat and lungs congested. Do not delay until it is too late, but treat your cough early. Scott's Emulsion is one of the very best remedies.

With Dun & Co.

New York, June 5.—R. G. Dun & Co. will say to-morrow in their weekly review of trade:

Failures for the week were 234 in the United States against 195 last year and 29 in Canada against 25 last year.

It is highly suggestive that with as little help as there is now from new business, markets are so nearly maintained. The opinion gains ground that more active business is to be expected after the conventions have been held and the safety and sufficiency of crops have been assured.

Decline in wheat and cotton has helped marketing the surplus, so that exports have been more liberal; estimates entitled to most confidence point to a probable yield of 500,000,000 bushels of wheat, which, with the stock carried over, will clear any danger of oppressive charges for breadstuffs, at the same time giving producers a fair return. Estimates of cotton acreaged by the best authorities indicate a crop of 10,000,000 bales, if the weather is favorable, and the surplus from past crops is certain with only a fair yield to be large enough to prevent any harmful rise, as a yield exceeding the maximum world's consumption of America would probably cause some decline. The movement of cattle at the west is very heavy, at Chicago 10 per cent. greater than last year thus far, and lard makes a new low record, with enormous stocks accumulated.

Even fair crops will mean better business for railroads, which report earnings for May thus far only 2.6 per cent. more than last year.

The boot and shoe industry is still the most active. The hardest problem of the day is whether iron and steel prices can be maintained, as they have been during the past week. The nail associations have failed thus far to win over competitors who undersell them, and are able to manufacture 75,000 kegs against every 100,000 by concerns in the combination. The bar association asks for iron more than the selling price of steel bars. Open hearth billets are more freely sold at Pittsburg below the price asked for Bessemer, and middlemen are still selling Bessemer billets about $1.00 below the price fixed by the pool. Naturally the doubt regarding maintenance of prices greatly checks the demand for the present, but belief that a much larger demand is certain and will not long be delayed, is the one thing which prevents considerable decline.

The textile manufacturers are halting, with some cotton goods reduced still further in prices and ginghams to the lowest point ever known, while no increase appears in the demand. Sales of wool still fall below half the quantity required for a full consumption, and prices have further declined.

WILL BE LARGELY ATTENDED.

Many Visitors Will Be Here for the U. B. Sunday School Convention.

The indications are that the Sunday School Convention and Ministerial Association of the Altoona District of the United Brethren Church of the Allegheny Conference, which will be held in this city on Wednesday and Thursday, June 10 and 11, will be one of the largest and most successful conventions ever held in the history of the district. A well prepared program will be presented, in which are many interesting and instructive subjects. Three sessions will be held each day, during which time much important work will be done. To Rev. C. C. Miller of this city is due the credit of the assured success of the event.

SECURED BUT LITTLE.

Robbers at Milesburg Poorly Rewarded for their Efforts.

Some time during Sunday night an attempt was made to rob the safe in the Pennsylvnia Railroad Station at Milesburg. An entrance was effected into the Station and the safe tampered with. The dial was blown off but the door could not be opened and the only booty secured by the robbers was a pair of shoes. There is no clue as to the identity of the robbers.

ROBBED THE POST OFFICE

Bold Work of Thieves at Snow Shoe on Sunday Morning.

FOUR SUSPECTS ARE PUT INTO JAIL

It is Believed That They Are The Right Parties.—$100 Worth of Stamps Stolen and Much Property Destroyed.—A Speedy Capture.

About 3 o'clock Sunday morning the post office at Snow Shoe was broken into by robbers, who blew open the safe with dynamite, and besides stealing over $100 worth of postage stamps, destroyed postal cards and stamped envelopes for almost the same value. Four strangers who had been seen loitering around Snow Shoe on Saturday were suspected, and after quite a search were found and arrested and brought to Bellefonte and lodged in jail. They gave their names as Charles Gray, William Myers and William May of Philadelphia and Howard Smith of Kentucky.

The robbery was a bold and desperate one. Two holes had been drilled in the safe and a heavy charge of dynamite put in. The force of the explosion was so strong that the safe door was hurled fully sixteen feet across the room. A wet blanket had been placed on the floor around the safe to deaden the sound of the explosion. Everything in the room was scattered about and lay around in great confusion. The safe and contents were thoroughly rifled, but in some way or other a drawer in which were about $11 in pennies was overlooked by the robbers in their haste.

Postmaster John A. Kelley was soon on the scene of the robbery, as was also T. B. Buddinger, Alfred Lucas and several others. Suspicion at once fell upon the four strangers who had been seen in that vicinity on Saturday. The suspicions of the men were confirmed when, upon investigation, they found tracks leading up to the post office, and the indications were that they were made by four men. This discovery was further strengthened when they found marks on the ground made by a man with one foot who walked with crutches. As there was such a man among the four strangers who had been there the day before they came to the conclusion they were on the right track and immediately started out to look for the robbers.

The searching party was divided so that every road could be carefully guarded. It was surmised that the robbers would flee to Snow Shoe Intersection, there catch a freight train and thus escape. The only hope of effecting their capture lay in getting to Snow Shoe Intersection before they could get away.

The searching party traveled hard and fast and when they arrived at the Intersection there they found their suspects and soon had them under arrest. They were taken back to Snow Shoe and then brought to this city, arriving here about 6.30 o'clock in the evening. Commitment papers were made out by 'Squire Keichline and within sixteen hours after the robbery had been committed the robbers were safely lodged in cells at Fort Condo.

A telephone dispatch from Snow Shoe adds still more damaging evidence. The four men went out about two miles from Snow Shoe, ostensibly to sleep over night in an unoccupied building. It was, however, but a neat scheme to throw the citizens of Snow Shoe off their guard. About 11 o'clock in the night they were seen coming back to Snow Shoe, and taking into consideration the distance to walk and the time they would reach town it tallies with about the exact hour the robbery was committed. The post office was broken into by and the holes in the safe drilled with tools stolen from a blacksmith shop near by. Smith, one of the men arrested, was in this same blacksmith shop on Saturday examining tools, and thus everything points to the fact that the right parties have been apprehended. The capture is regarded as an important one inasmuch as there have been a number of robberies committed at post offices and railroad stations in this valley during the past year. The men arrested will be taken to Williamsport to be given a hearing and if held will be then taken to Pittsburg for trial.

Of Course It Worked.

The young man was bringing to bear all his limited attainments as a contortionist in his efforts to see around the tall, wide hat worn by the sweet girl in front of him.

The young woman whom he was accompanying saw him and pitied him.

Then a knowing smile passed over her face, and she leaned over and whispered loudly enough for the girl with the big hat to hear:

"What a lovely hat that girl in front of you has on."

He looked fierce, but said nothing and the owner of the hat stared straight ahead with a pleased expression.

"What a pity it is," the young woman with the knowing look resumed, "that she doesn't know it isn't on straight."

The girl in front made a convulsive grab and shifted the hat to one side. Then it didn't feel right, and she shoved it away over to the other side, only to hear in commiserating stage whisper behind her:

"Poor thing, she'll never get it straight now."

It was too much. The girl in front reached up with a resolute hand, undid the hat and laid it in her lap, while the young man cast a glance at his companion which was eloquent with undying admiration and eternal gratitude.—Philadelphia Times.

Bovinine

Dr. W. E. S. Preston, House Physician of the "House of Rest for Consumptives," of Tremont, N. Y., says, "I have never known a case where the stomach has rejected Bovinine. In cases of collapse, so common among consumptives, we always use it." Bovinine being easy to take, and quick of assimilation and a wonderful food product, at once starts on its mission of creating strength, flesh and blood. It tones up the vital organs and by thus invigorating them, enables them to throw off disease and gives to the sufferer a new lease of life where such a thing is possible.

An Able Sermon.

Rev. H. A. Grant preached to quite a large congregation last evening on the Scriptural authority of the sabbath. The speaker said in part that all agree that the rest day originated in Paradise, and was given to man before the fall. The fourth commandment was not at all impaired by the change of the day. After discussing Christ's teachings about the day, the Jewish regulations and the manner in which the "modern Judiaizing Sabbatarians" regard the Lord's Day. He proceeded to give the Scriptural authority of the sabbath and the real cause of its change from the 7th to the first day of the week.

The change from the 7th to the first was circumstantial. If made for sufficient reason and competent authority, the change is obligatory. The reason for the change is patent. If the deliverance of the Hewbrew from the bondage in Egypt should be commemorated, how much more the redemption of the world by the Son of God. If the creation of the material universe should be kept in perpetual remembrance, how much more the new creation secured by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. If men wish the knowledge of that event to die let them neglect to keep holy the first day of the week; if they desire that event to be everywhere known and remembered, let them consecrate that day to the worship of the risen Savior, this is God's method for keeping the resurrection of Christ, on which our salvation depends in perpetual remembrance

This change of the sabbath from the seventh to the first day of the week was made not only for a sufficient reason, but also by competent authority. It is a simple historical fact that the christians of the apostolic age ceased to observe the 7 and did observe the first day of the week, as the day for religious worship.

After the sermon William Mills made a very intelligent prayer on the above subject.

The Cruel Truth.

Years ago a member of the Indiana legislature, in a brand new suit of broadcloth and a silk hat, gold headed cane, and white lawn tie, wandered up into the sanctum of The Courier-Journal, stood around in a listless way, looked over the papers, went down the stairs and came back several times. He was asked to take a seat which he declined elaborately and ended by drawing his chair in a confidential way to the "Roundabout" man's desk.

"Could you," said he, put in the paper that I am at the Galt house with my bride and just fling in something about my being a prominent Indianian. I don't care anything about this sort of thing myself, but you know how the women are. I want 50 copies of the paper sent to this address," and he laid down a 50 cent piece to pay for all "expenses."

The Fighting Argument

FLORENCE HOWE HALL.

The right to vote and the right to hold property both originally depend ed on the ability of fight.

A few days ago at a meeting of the opponents of equal suffrage held in New York, the statement was once more made that women should not be allowed to vote because they could not fight. This argument has been used many times and refuted many times, but, like other fallacies it dies hard.

It is a survival from the days when fighting was the most honorable calling in life, when it was the main business for noblemen and even for Kings. That it should still survive in our own peaceful and industrial age, when the effect of civilized mankind is to prevent wars' whether public or private, is one of those anomalies which can only be explained by the fact that we are all of us, more or less, inconsistent.

If the ability to fight is to be the test of the ability to vote, then the ballot should be given only to men within the fighting age,—namely from 18 to 40 or 45 years. This would deprive us of the wise counsels of the men over 45 years of age, a deprivation which we could ill afford.

The idea that the ballot cannot be given to women, because they are not fighters is a survival of feudalism, of a military age and cast of thought. But in fedual times, the right to hold property also depended upon the ability to fight for it. The feudal lords held their estates directly from the King, and, the lieu of rent, they did military service. They agreed to provide their royal master with a certain number of fighting men in time of war, each lord appearing at the head of his little army unless disabled by age or infirmity. But in order to provide the required quoto of soldiers, each earl of baron called upon those next beneath him in rank who held their lands from him and in their turn raised a band of fighting men. In a word, the title to real estate was given to him who could fight in his own person, and in those of his followers. Yet even in these days, women sometimes held lands and were allowed to send substitutes

If anyone now should attempt to say that women could not hold property because they could not fight, nor bring a band of fighting followers into the field, everyone would say "What antiquated rubbish is this? Everyone's property is defended by the police and in case of need by the army." And yet those who pride themselves upon their logic solemnly tell us that women must not vote because the vote, in a by-gone military age, depended upon the ability to fight:

So slowly, and so hard do old ideals, that have long ago lost their force and meaning, die out of the thoughts of men.

Caused Great Excitement.

A ripple of excitement was caused in Democratic political circles this morning when the people awoke to find the city literally plastered with large bills bearing the following:

"FOR CONGRESS—VOTE FOR DAVID L. KREBS OF CLEARFIELD COUNTY—A STRAIGHT DEMOCRAT."

On almost every street the placards are posted in conspicuous places and one can hardly step without them staring him in the face from upon all sides.

It took but a short time for the ripple of excitement to increase into a large wave and it was all day the only topic of conversation. Little knots of men could be seen every here and there talking the matter over and many were the conclusions arrived at only to be abandoned the next moment. There has not for years been so much scurrying around among the democrats as there was to-day. Everybody is on the edge and the questions and suppositions cast this way and that are ludicrous and amusing.

It had been the general opinion that Col. J. L. Spangler, of this city, would have no opposition for the Congressional nomination from the Twenty eighth district. The announcement that ex-Judge David L. Krebs, of Clearfield county, was a candidate, coming as it does right on the eve of the Democratic primaries, which will be held to-morrow, it has acted like an exploded bomb in the ranks of the Democratic party.

The surprise is general. It was not even known in Centre county that Judge Krebs was to be a candidate. A man named Hagerty of Clearfield county, it was known, was in the race, but no one ever dreamed of the name of Judge Krebs being presented to the voters of Centre county It is thought that since the recent developments Mr. Hagerty has withdrawn. This, however, is only rumor and could not be verified.

Who the Krebs men in Centre county are, seems to be the question that no one cares to answer. A DAILY NEWS reporter interviewed a number of politicians of both parties but could get but little satisfaction on this point. When the question "who are the supporters of Judge Krebs" was put to those who are in the inside, some refused to say anything at all, while others gave evasive answers. The majority, however, stated emphatically that they knew of no Krebs advocates and said they didn't know until this morning that there was going to be any opposition whatever to Colonel Spangler.

The Krebs placards were put on the streets some time during the night—supposedly between 12 and 1 o'clock. They were posted up by three Bellefonters, who certainly did their work well, as almost every telephone pole in town bore one or two of these glaring posters.

A DAILY NEWS reporter called on Col. Spangler and found that personage in the best of spirits. He didn't appear to be the least bit worried over the matter and talked quite freely. If the election doesn't worry the Colonel any more than Judge Krebs' candidacy, he won't lose even a wink of sleep over it.

There was some talk on the streets that the whole affair was a joke, but this theory is not generally accepted. It is thought the posters were printed in Bellefonte and that the principal opposition is working under cover.

The editor of the DAILY NEWS telegraphed Judge Krebs to find out whether or not he was a candidate, but as yet no reply has been received.

FIRES BLOWN OUT:

The Valentine Iron Company Closes Down for Repairs.

The fires in the large Valentine Iron company's furnaces were blown out on Thursday and thus one of the busies places in Bellefonte will be idle for at least a month.

The shut down was necessary in order to make needed repairs but it will not be long until everything out there will be humming once more. Among other repairs that will be made will be a new lining to a large stack. To do this it will take thousands of brick and thus many of the men will be still employed.

Although the furnace will be shut down the ore mines will be kept running as usual. The company has many orders to fill and as soon as the repairs are completed work will be commenced with a rush.

CORRESPONDENCE.

HARRISBURG, MAY 25, 1896.

EDITOR PATRON:—

Honorable Thos. J. Edge, Sec. of Agricultural, who was stricken with nervous prostration a few days ago is slowly improving.

Prof. John Hamilton, Deputy Sec. of Agriculture, is busy arranging for Farmers' Institutes to be held in the several sections of the State the coming winter.

The programs for the different meetings promise to be of unusual interest and men who are authority on the various questions that will be discussed have been engaged to talk.

Hon. Levi Wells, Dairy and Food Commissioner, is untiring in his efforts to push forward the work of his Department, and prosecutions are being brought, almost daily, against dealers in impure food. These parties are being made understood that the people want purer articles of food and to this end the law will be enforced.

Dr. B. H. Warren, State Zoologist, has issued a bulletin entitled, "Taxidemy or How to Skin, Preserve and Mount Birds" and contains the game laws of the State. The work is unusually interesting and can be had free by writing to the Department of Agriculture.

A timely editorial upon the prevalence of forest fires, this year, recently appeared in the Philadelphia Press. That there is blame somewhere appears from the statements in the editorial. Indeed the mere fact of the fires proves culpable neglect somewhere. They could not occur as they do if the State had done its whole duty in protecting property.

It is well to add the only power the Forestry Commissioner has under existing legislation is to urge the enforcement of certain laws, but he has no power of compelling it. It is stated that his autumn showing of losses by the conflagrations this Spring will be very thorough and convincing and should lead the legislature to adopt some sensible and adequate measures to reduce their number and severity, and to punish those who create them.

A New Cave Discovered.

A cave alleged to rival, in extent and grandeur, the great Mammoth Cave, has been discovered in Edmonson county, Ky., in which the Mammoth Cave is situated. The newspapers of that region tell many stories of the remarkable character of the new cave. It was discovered by a travelling photographer of Bowling Green several weeks ago. He stumbled across an opening in the rocks, and following it downward sixty feet found himself in an immense cave. He got others to accompany him in an exploration of the cave and it is alleged that more than sixty miles of subterranean avenues have been explored. It is said that a company has been formed to exploit the cave, that it will be lighted with electricity, and that an electric railway will be built to its mouth from Cave City.

GOING TO WILLIAMSPORT.

Evangelists Weaver, Wharton and Weeden Soon to Leave Bellefonte.

Next Sunday evening Evangelists Weaver, Wharton and Weeden will hold their last meeting in the Tabernacle in Bellefonte. On Monday the Tabernacle will be taken down and on Tuesday shipped to Williamsport, where the Evangelists will hold their revivals for a month. They are going upon the urgent solicitation of the citizens of Williamsport, and will hold their meetings for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. of that city. The churches will assist in the work and a successful religious work is anticipated. From Williamsport the Tabernacle will be taken to Shamokin, where another series of revivals will be held.

As stated in a foregoing paragraph, Sunday will be the last day for this work in this city. Three services will be held. One at 9 a. m., one 3 p. m. and also one at 7.30 in the evening. The service in the morning at 9 o'clock will in all probability be a communion service, to which all Christians are invited to attend and commune.

On Wednesday, June 17, a large open air revival will be held at Hecla Park, which will include three services—at 10.30 a. m., 2.15 and 6.30 p. m. The latter will be a twilight and farewell eervice. The Evangelists will leave for Williamsport on Thursday and will hold their first meeting in the Tabernacle in that city on Sunday, June 21.

A farewell envelope offering will be taken on Sunday afternoon and evening in this city. We hope the revivals in Williamsport will be very successful and predict they will result in much good being accomplished. Such has surely been the result in this city.

The Happiest Man in Town.

Anybody can guess who it is without half trying. What did you say—a boy? Of course it is, and he looks just like his 'pap" and that is what makes Ed Woods, the genial mail carrier, so happy to-day. Ed has always wanted a boy but his wish has never been granted before and when it was made known to him that a great big bouncing boy had arrived, he gave a shout for joy that could be heard for ten squares away. So if the people on his mail route get their letters all mixed up, don't blame it on Ed because he isn't responsible just now. Ed can now carry the male in reality at night. We join with Uncle Sam in extending our heartiest congratulations. Bill Garman says there is a considerable increase in the shade in the Post office owing to the big addition to the Woods.

Out for Sport.

The "Hoot Owl Fishing Club" of this place departed yesterday for Beech Creek where they will go into camp for several weeks. John Anderson, jr., Geo. Snyder and William Ammerman are the advance guard who went ahead to put the camp in shape. Several more will follow the latter part of the week or the beginning of next. The probabilities are that there will be very few fish in Bald Eagle creek after the boys come home as they are all expert fishermen.

To Know Their Fate

United States Marshall Frank Campbell of Connellsville came to Bellefonte and took to Altoona yesterday Charles Gray, William Meyers, William May and Howard Smith, who were arrested on Sunday charged with robbing the Snow Shoe Post office. The men will be granted a hearing on Saturday and if bound over, will be taken to Pittsburg to await trial.

Another Boy.

Boyd Gehret is in that happy frame of mind experienced by young fathers. On Wednesday a new boy arrived and Boyd is taking great pleasure in telling everybody he meets all about it and always concludes by saying "and it's the very image of its father." Congratulations, Boyd.

Will Strive for Honors.

Lester Shefler and Benjamin Bradley of this city have been entered for the bicycle races at Hollidaysburg to-morrow. They are expert riders and we look for some of the prizes to come to Bellefonte. We wish them every success possible.

The recent rainfalls have very materially improved the condition of the crops, some of which were suffering damage because of the lack of moisture, The corn which was backward in growth, has been greatly stimulated and at present gives promise of a good crop.

Off for Altoona.

Company B of this place departed yesterday for Altoona where they will participate in the Centennial celebration at Hollidaysburg. They were accompanied by quite a number of Bellefonters who will be in line, but not in the parade.

"Our little girl had diarrhoea in a very bad form. We tried everything we could think of but without effect until we got Dr. Fowler's extract of wild strawberries, which helped her right away." Mrs. Ann Borgman, Verban, Sanilac Co., Mich.

Fence Cattle In, Not Out.

Anent the question of the responsibil ty of owners of straying cattle for damage done by them, Secretary Edge says: The fact is that the repeal of the general laws of 1700 and 1784 has completely reversed things so far as outside or road fences are concerned. Under these acts the owner was required to protect it against stock passing along the road or suffer damages. Since the repeal of these laws it has become the ty of the owners of live stock on public roads to prevent them from trespassing, and if trespass takes place the owner of the stock is personally responsible to the owner of the land for any damages done to crops or other property. Under the old law the crops had to be fenced to protect them from stock, but now the stock must be restrained and the land owner is not compelled to maintain fences unless he chooses."

Churchmen as Actors.

Beaver Falls, Pa., June 8.—The members of Christ Episcopal church are getting up a dramatic performance for the benefit of the church that they intend to give in the open air on a stage erected on the lawn of one of the church members. The play will be given with appropriate scenery, costumes and stage effects.

A Friend in Need.

"My dear friend, I must ask you to lend me at once 100 marks. I have left my purse at home, and I haven't a farthing in my pocket!"

'I can't lend you 100 marks just now, but I can put you in the way of getting the money at once!"

"You are extremely kind!"

"Here's twopence. Ride home on the tram and fetch your purse!"—Neueste Nachrichten.

The young woman who consents to marry a young man with whom she has the most superficial acquaintance may be happy, but the chances are that she is laying the foundation for life of sorrow. Within the last ten years applications for divorce have increased with great rapidity in this country. In majority of cases the applications are by women and the ground for application is desertion.

The Three.

A serious looking person had charge of the grammer division of a school examination and gave a bright looking boy this sentence to correct, "Between you and I this is good butter." The boy shortly returned the slip marked thus: "Incorrect. The lamppost is omitted."—Exchange.

Holding Examinations

County Superintendent C. L. Gramley held a teachers' examination at the brick building to-day at which quite a large class attended. The results are not known as yet but we hope every one of the teachers will be successful in passing a creditable examination.

'Squire McKeage and the Bull.

Nippenose News: About noon Wednesday, as 'Squire James McKeage was crossing a field, he was startled by the sudden appearance of a cross Jersey bull which had been hidden from view by a clump of bushes. The bull made a rush for the 'Squire, who, seeing that he could not make the fence, attempted to dodge the furious brute. He nevertheless was struck on the leg and knocked down, but he managed to grasp the chain which was fastened by a ring in the bull's nose. The bull struggled hard to loose himself until finally the ring was torn out of the flesh. When this occurred the 'Squire thought his doom was sealed. But, strange to relate, the bull turned and ran away. The punishment he had received about the nose had settled him.

A Lake That Disappears.

There is a lake near Valdosta, Ga., which disappears every three or four years and comes back again, no matter what the condition of the weather. The lake is three miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide, with an average depth of 15 feet of water, but at the present time the water is rapidly passing off through the subterranean passages, and in the next two or three weeks there will be left in its place a mammoth basin furnishing as pretty a beach as can be found anywhere After a month or so it begins to return; in a couple of weeks it is the same magnificent stretch of water as it was before.—Louisville Courier Journal.

She Wanted Love or Death.

DuBois, Pa., June 8.—Emily May Harvey, daughter of James Harvey mine boss at the Berwind-White shaft attempted suicide at the residence of her aunt, Mrs. George Harvey whom she was visiting, on Saturday. Miss Harvey took red oxide of mercury because her parents objected to her lover and wanted her to marry another man. A physician was summoned promptly and she was soon out of danger.

She Wanted Samples.

"Is this where you vote?" said an Ohio votress to an election officer.

"Yes ma'am."

"Then please cut off samples of all the tickets, and I'll take them home and see which I like best."—Pittsburg Cronicle.

A Go Ahead Town.

An exchange from Telluride, Col., publishes an article which gives the reader an idea of the go-ahead spirit in that town. In a little less than two weeks the project of having a fourth of July celebration in that place was started, worked up and all arrangements completed. During this time the committee in charge raised $3,415 50, arranged the event for a three days' celebration, and completed all the details so as to publish the program in the Journal of May 30. All this in a town of about 3,000 inhabitants speaks well for the western progressive spirit.

The school directors of Washington county, at their recent convention, passed a resolution in which they urged the superintendent, after visiting the schools of any township or district, to make a written report of the schools to the board of directors of said township or districts, with such recommendations as the condition of the schools may suggest to him.

An experienced teacher says the pupils who have access to newspapers at home when compared with those who do not, are better readers, better spellers, better grammarians, read more understandingly and obtain a practical knowledge of geography in half the time it requires others. The newspaper is decidedly an important factor in modern life.

The Child Ate Matches.

Tiffin, O., June 8.—A shocking death occurred to-day to the 2 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hewitt. The little one, while playing about the house, got hold of a box of matches, and unperceived by any of the household, occupied itself in biting off the ends of them. When discovered the child had swallowed forty three match heads and was showing unmistakable symptoms of poisoning.

Farmers' Institutes.

In the matter of holding farmers' institutes throughout the state during the season of 1896-97. John Hamilton, the director of farmers' institutes, has made radical changes. That gentleman has completed an apportionment on the basis of two days of institute to every county having not over 1,000 farms, three days to each county having more than 1,000 and not over 1,500 farms; afterward, one day for each 1,500 farms or fraction thereof additional.

This insures department aid to each county in proportion to its agricultural interests. This state has been divided into three sections, with 100 days to two sections and ninety-nine to another. A separate set of lectures will be assigned to each section and in a given county the same department workers will continue until all the institutes in that county have been held. The amount of money to be distributed to the various managers for local expenses will be according to the number of days of institute held.

The average cost for local expenses for the past year in this state, taking the institutes as held under the new method was $6.54 a day. To make the amount equal for the coming season this sum has been increased to $9 per day of institute. This provides $18 for each two days of institute to be used for local expenses. There will be in addtion the state help of two lectures, which, with the local assistance, is expected to carry the work through in a creditable manner.
